LOOK OUT FOR FIRE!

To Theater Owners, Managers and Whom It May Concern

This is to certify that I have equipped the Windsor theater in this city with the Lindgren stationary chemical fire engines. After examining all other systems of fire protection and after repeated tests of the Lindgren stationary chemical fire engine and upon the recommendation of the insurance underwriters, I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the cheapest and most powerful as well as perfect fire protection for theaters ever invented. In my opinion every theater and opera house in the United States as well as Europe should be equipped with these chemical fire engines and thus save the loss of life and thousands of dollars in property.

Respectfully,
(Signed) F. I. GOLDY,
Owner Windsor Theater, Chicago, Ill.

To Whom It May Concern

This is to certify that I, George A. Burbank, witnessed the exhibition of the Lindgren chemical engine test to-day and as I have witnessed a great many such chemical tests in New York City, Boston, Mass., and other large cities in the East, I hereby state that it was the quickest and most satisfactory test and was also pronounced so by two of our old firemen and all the citizens present, and I will also state that the time [illegible] the chemical was left in lively to me and I did not give the word until the fire was well started for in other tests I have witnessed they have always put the chemical on the minute the fire was started and water would answer just as well as there was nothing but the flame started and the wood not charred and I take great pleasure in recommending the Lindgren as far superior to any other chemical engine on the market.

SKIN CANCER.

Several years ago I was called to see a colored woman who had a malignant form of cancer on her foot. The cancer grew worse under the prescribed treatment and the toes and one side of the foot were at length eaten entirely away. The patient could not have survived much longer but I commenced the use of Swift's Specific, and it cured her sound well. That was three years ago and there has been no return of the disease. I regard Swift's Specific a most excellent medicine for blood diseases as its tendency is to drive out the poison.

Two Acres of Fine Business Houses Destroyed

LOSS ESTIMATED AT FOUR MILLIONS

Many Magnificent Structures Destroyed—The Origin of the Fire and Its Limits—Assistance From Neighboring Towns

BOSTON, Nov 28.—The fire bell rang out through the driving rain at 8:15 o'clock this morning and in less than a half hour there was a foundation for another Boston fire. The flames were discovered in the mammoth stone building on the corner of Kingston and Bedford streets, hitherto thought to have been fireproof. It burned like a tinder box. The fire department which first responded was wholly incapable of handling the flames which began to leap up and out of the roof and windows toward the buildings on the other side of the street and to the buildings back of the mammoth structure on Rowe place. A second alarm was sent in at 8:30 and when the apparatus responded to this more was needed. A little after 9 o'clock a third alarm was sent in and in half an hour a general alarm which brought the apparatus from Cambridge, Somerville and Chelsea. From the very start there was little hope of the fire being stopped before it consumed several buildings, and the firemen who had recently returned from the great Lynn fire and wondered how in the world it could have gained such headway found out how it was themselves. [illegible] steamers were on the way from Taunton in answer to Chief Webber's call. Shortly after 9 it looked as if the flames would advance without a hindrance up Kingston to Summer street. Brown, Durell & Co's building was now a heap of glowing ruins. The old building at No. 30 Kingston street now began to light up and the Brainerd & Armstrong Company's building was just catching. The group of desperate fire fighters were being forced to recede inch by inch. The building occupied by Bradford & Thomas and Ames's building were involved in the general destruction. Eastward the fire thirty minutes later had reached the Freedman building on the corner of Lincoln and Bradford streets, while toward Washington street its limit at the same time, 9:30, was Chauncey street. It was reported that a dead body had been taken out of the premises of Cluett, Koon & Co at 74 Chauncey street. Just before 10 o'clock assistance reached the scene from Cambridge.

From the building of Brown & Durell the fire spread across the street and back through the building into Chauncey street. In a few minutes it extended along Chauncey street on the left hand side, eating into the buildings next on the south occupied by Cluett, Koon & Co. In less than ten minutes the flames were burning in the next mammoth stone building occupied by Williams & Co. on the next corner south. From the other side it ran almost at once upon the buildings in Rowe place, and the wind favored the supposition that the whole of South Cove and the whole sale district was doomed. At 11 nearly every building had gone from Bedford street along Kingston and Chauncey streets, and the flames were eating up all those on the south side of Rowe place. On the east side of Chauncey street the buildings were all of mammoth structures occupied as wholesale houses and dry goods and fancy goods, and every endeavor was made to keep them from catching. This endeavor was futile however and the flames rushed on in both directions. The large retail dry goods establishment of Jordan, Marsh & Co at Washington and Arch streets is [illegible] burned and the Globe theater at Hayward place and Washington street is now burning.

As near as can be ascertained eleven blocks of buildings have been destroyed up to [illegible] A. M. The fire now seems to be somewhat under control. Out of town fire companies are arriving and are doing effective work. Although confidence is expressed that the fire will not spread much more there are grave fears for the safety of White's large dry goods establishment and also the retail departments of Jordan & Marsh and Hovey & Co as the fire seems to be working in that direction.

THE ORIGIN OF THE FIRE

It Started in the Six Story Granite Block of Jordan, Marsh & Co

BOSTON, Nov 28.—The fire started shortly before 8 A. M. on the upper floor of the six story granite block No. 79 to 87 Bedford street, owned by Jordan, Marsh & Co and occupied by the Shoe and Leather Exchange, Brown, Durell & Co, the Woonsocket Rubber Company, [illegible] Herbert & Rapp, John Hogg & Co and a branch office of the Western Union Telegraph Company. On the ground floor were about fifty offices of out of town boot and shoe and leather manufacturers. On the upper floor the fire had evidently had complete possession before it was discovered by the flames bursting from all the upper windows. The alarm was promptly answered but before a stream could be got on the two upper stories they were pouring forth flames. They reached across Bedford street and caught a stage in front of the new Shoe and Leather Exchange building in process of erection. A second, third and a general alarm followed each other in quick succession. Before the additional apparatus arrived, however, the flames had leaped across Bedford, Kingston and Columbus streets and had also attacked the buildings in the rear in the same blocks and the engines already in position were obliged to retreat to new positions on account of the great heat and abandon their ladders and long lines of hose. The handsome brownstone Ames building on the opposite corner of Bedford and Kingston street was a mass of fire. Great sheets of flame were pouring from every window and reaching across Bedford street, cracking the glass of the opposite windows and setting them on fire in all the upper stories.

By 8:30 the rear of all the buildings on Chauncey street on the south side of Bedford street was on fire and the fire department was apparently unable to cope with it. The chief of engineers appreciated the situation and at about 9 sent to all the suburban cities and towns for help and by 9:30 engines from the nearer points were dashing in from all sides.

Details of police were also arriving from the other districts and soon had all the section bounded by Summer, Washington, Essex and Lincoln streets roped off so thoroughly that your correspondent could not get near enough to the fire to secure [illegible]. Just before he was obliged to retreat before the flames on Avon street, Jordan, Marsh & Co, C. F. Hovey & Co and a host of other dry goods firms on that street were loading express wagons and hacks with silks and the more valuable of their goods. About 11 o'clock he succeeded in making the attendant of a freight elevator at the Adams house allow him to ascend to the top of the roof. The view from this point of vantage embraced the whole scene and the fire was apparently under control. Very little flame was to be seen, judging from the necessarily partial view of the ruins when the smoke blew away. About two acres of property has been destroyed, the starting point being about in the center. Your correspondent's interest in the scene was [illegible], however, by the impatience of the elevator man, who insisted on returning to his duties, and could not be persuaded to do so alone. A walk completely round the section roped off by the police just before noon confirmed the view from the Adams house roof that the fire was under control.

Out of town apparatus continues to dash in, their horses reeking with foam and wild with excitement. There are probably seventy five steamers surrounding the fire at 12:30. The starting point of the fire is only a short block from that of the great fire of 1872, and the alarm was rung in [illegible] the same box. It burnt nearly up to the edge of the burnt district of the great fire, but did not extend. The fire did not quite reach Summer street nor Lincoln street, but has burned half way through the block bounded by Kingston, Summer and Bedford streets and also that bounded by Bedford, Lincoln, Essex and Columbia streets. It also appears to have reached Essex and Chauncey streets at one or two points but not to have crossed them.

The firemen were aided by the pouring rain which lasted from early last evening till just about the time they got the fire under control at noon. Otherwise there is but little doubt that other fires would have been started by the storm of embers, some of them as large as half a brick, which fell like a snowstorm in all directions, but principally toward the great dry goods stores on Washington street. The soaked condition of the roofs, however, and the pouring rain extinguished them before they could do any damage. There is but little doubt that but for the deluge poured from the clouds the fire would have swept through the common.

A LATER ACCOUNT.

The Most Disastrous Fire That Has Visited Boston Since 1872

BOSTON, Nov 28.—The most disastrous fire from which Boston has suffered since 1872 and one which in property loss rivals the great conflagration at Lynn one day, broke out about 8:30 A. M. to-day in the six story granite building owned by Jordan, Marsh & Co, and occupied by Brown, Durell & Co, dry goods merchants, on Bedford street at the corner of Kingston. The great fire of 1872 broke out at corner of Kingston and Summer streets and the alarm of to-day's fire was rung in from the same box which heralded the memorable conflagration that consumed nearly $100,000,000 of property. The first alarm rung in to-day was immediately followed by the first general alarm in Boston since 1872.

To-day's conflagration raged for six hours and burned over two acres of territory covered by magnificent structures, and entailed a loss of, as is estimated, $4,000,000. The general alarm was soon followed by calls upon all the neighboring cities and towns for assistance. Flames were soon pouring from all the windows and the roof of the Brown, Durell building, and [illegible] they had spread to the shoe and leather exchange building, another large granite structure adjoining Brown, Durell & Co, on Bedford street. From the other buildings the flames swept in great masses across Bedford street to the opposite corner and then across Kingston street along Bedford to Chauncey, where it was stopped in the store of Farley, Harvey & Co, the upper stories of which were burned. Three stores along Chauncey street toward Summer were burned. On the south side of Bedford street the flames jumped across Kingston street from the hot blaze from the building of Brown, Durell & Co to the big sandstone building owned by F. L. Ames and occupied by Taylor Bros, and this was consumed. The great granite building known as Nevin's block, at the corner of Chauncey street, was the next victim for the flames and the entire block clear around Rowe place to Kingston street was consumed. Crossing Chauncey street, the fire soon had a good hold of all the stores which are inclosed in Exeter place, a small street running from Harrison avenue to Chauncey street. Here the firemen got control. At Rowe place the fire was partially checked from going toward Essex street but quickly moved toward the opposite side to the [illegible] buildings occupying the square between Bedford street, Harrison avenue extension and Exeter place, at which point the further progress of the flames was checked.

Seven people in the building at the corner of Kingston and Bedford streets were overcome by the smoke but were rescued by the bravery of Police Sergeant Kimball, Patrolman Haines and ex-Councilman Barry. A policeman and several firemen are reported to have been seriously injured or burned. The origin of the fire is not definitely known but it is attributed to the electric wires. Later estimates of the loss place it at nearly $5,000,000. About two hundred firms were burned out, and one hundred agents of New York and Western firms had their headquarters there.

The agents for a large number of the insurance companies interested were seen by a reporter and asked as to their losses. The risks which could be ascertained to-day amount to nearly $3,700,000, while a large number of companies have not yet been heard from. The fire, coming as it does on top of the great blaze at Lynn, is a crushing blow to many of the smaller insurance companies and it is not at all unlikely that it will cause the suspension of some of them.

Following is a list of the losses of the leather firms burned out, a great many of them being Boston houses of large factories in other portions of New England: C. P. Aldrich & Co, the Apple[illegible] Shoe Company, P. Barrett & Co, Alphens Bates, the W. C. [illegible] Shoe Company, Bunton & Co, Copeland & Hartwell, John Fogg & Co, Frank S. Gage, J. W. Hall & Co, L. P. Hawkins & Co, Howard & Foster, W. Ireson & Co, [illegible] Keith & Co, S. Keith & Co, the Lynn Boot & Slipper Company, H. T. Marshall, Adolph Meyer & Co, George H. Nichol, J. A. Parker & Co, B. J. Patton, Perkins & Joyce, Joshua H. Putnam, Rogers & Webber, Rowe & Cuff, the Stetson [illegible] Shoe Manufacturing Company, W. C. [illegible], L. W. Tyler, Walker & Brown, the Woonsocket Rubber Company, Myron Woodbury, the Brockton Last Company, the Herder & Rapp Company, the National Company, [illegible] Dalton & Co, the Brockton [illegible] Machine Company, George H. Clark, Dupre & [illegible], the [illegible] Machine Company, Wheeler & Cummings, Woodward & Wright, and the houses of I. G. Solomon of New York, [illegible] & Brothers of Little Falls, N. Y. [illegible] all of the above [illegible] practically total. Brown, Durell & Co carried goods in stock to the value of $500,000, and the stock will be a total loss. The insurance on this is [illegible]. Jordan, Marsh & Co's shirt factory was insured for $25,000. The Woonsocket Rubber Company's stock was insured for $50,000. Taylor Bros, hats and caps, were insured for [illegible]; loss $100,000.

Reed's Election Predicted—The President's Silver Project—Northwest Notes

WASHINGTON, Nov 28.—Northern Pacific [illegible] service. There is little change in the speakership contest to-day but it is apparent that Reed will be nominated early in the caucus. The effort to prejudice the West against Reed, by bringing his wool, lead and silver record, has come to grief. The history of the man in reference to these interests as shown by the congressional record refutes the charge that he has been an enemy. Delegate Dubois of Idaho is [illegible] the charge that Reed opposed the [illegible] on lead. He says that on the contrary Reed came to the rescue of the lead men in the house and royally supported with his [illegible] strength the maintenance of the existing lead duty. He says the same is true as to his action on wool. Reed is a bimetallist but believes it is necessary to approach free and unlimited silver coinage by a gradual process, which will not change our monetary system.

It is rumored that the president will recommend a silver policy which can, and probably will be approved by the whole country. The administration measure is believed to contemplate the purchase of all the silver product of the country while leaving the control of the coinage with the government. The suggestion that silver bullion be accepted as a deposit instead of bonds to secure bank note circulation meets with some favor.

Congressman Carter has been notified by the secretary of Montana that Governor Toole has signed his certificate of election and that it has been mailed to him.

Mr Wilson of Wellington has at his own [illegible] treasury to find out what appropriation should be asked for buildings at Spokane Falls, Seattle and Tacoma [illegible] $200,000 [illegible].

Tacoma Politicians Dissatisfied With Elwood Evans—Work of the Fruit and Flower Mission in San Francisco

WASHINGTON, Nov 28.—What have you to be thankful for is the question put by a special correspondent here, to the president and each member of the cabinet.

The president said: "There are many personal reasons why I should feel thankful. My family and social relations have been extremely pleasant, and although they are not things which I would discuss in a newspaper yet they are great factors in our happiness. Nationally we have great cause for thanksgiving. The past year has been one of great general prosperity and peace. Of course there have been exceptions to this rule in a few disturbed localities, but they have been overshadowed by greater good. Crops have been abundant and we have been, in the language of the proclamation, 'free from pestilence and famine.'"

Secretary Blaine said: "Oh, I have so many things to be thankful for that it would be impossible to specify them."

Secretary Windom said his reasons for gratitude were so numerous that he could not think of any one incident or condition which was more prominent than its fellow.

Secretary Proctor said he was most thankful this year that his little boy was well again and with him.

Secretary Tracy said: "I am very thankful that divine providence has put it into the head of a Rhode Island man to send me a turkey, and then, of course, we are all very thankful for peace, health and prosperity."

Postmaster-General Wanamaker said he was thankful that his house was filled with young folks to-day and that they found enjoyment in coming to his home.

Secretary Noble told the reporter that he had many causes for thanksgiving, but he is pervaded with a profound sense of thankfulness that his annual report is completed.

Attorney General Miller said he was also glad his annual report is out of the way and that his desk is clear of pardon cases.

Farmers' secretary Uncle Jerry Rusk said he is thankful that we are thriving under the best system of government ever known, that we are a people imbued with a spirit of brotherly love, which finds expression in so generous a response to calls for assistance from scenes of flood and fire, that the prosperity of our nation is based on the peaceful avocation of agriculture, and that famine is a word which has no terrors for us. "With fifty bushels of cereals for every inhabitant of the land," he added, "we have enough for ourselves and our herds, the stranger, foreigner and millions that stay at home to dream of paradise and plenty in America. We can sell this year more cotton than we grew thirty years ago. We can spare more wheat than was grown in 1850. Four pounds of wool are grown for every one that was clipped in 1860. We have added to our store of fruits in such abundance as to initiate an export trade. We are searching the world for a market for our surplus production. What I am thankful for individually is simply that I am permitted to enjoy this country and this life, and, that to use a homely expression, I have not been lost in the shuffle."

WASHINGTON, Nov 28.—After returning from church to-day the president ate dinner with his family and passed the remainder of the day very quietly. Secretary Windom and family spent the day in Brooklyn and Postmaster-General Wanamaker at his country house near Philadelphia. Secretary Blaine was indisposed during the afternoon. It was said that his illness was not serious.

THANKSGIVING DAY AT OLYMPIA.

Spent Quietly at the Capital—Union Services at the Methodist Church.

OLYMPIA, Nov 28.—Thanksgiving day passed very quietly at the capital. Many of the west side senators and a few of the representatives have returned home, but a majority of the members remained in the city and put in the time at the legislative and press headquarters, on Fourth street, discussing the issues of the day and playing whist. The day dawned foggy, but the sky cleared before noon and the sun shone brightly during the rest of the day.

Union services were held in the Methodist church. During the services word came that a destructive fire was raging in Boston, and just before the benediction prayers were offered for the safety of the city.

The governor has a bad cold and has not been at his office for several days. He is much better to-day and will probably be on hand to-morrow.

CELEBRATING AT TACOMA

TACOMA, Nov 28.—The day has been celebrated in a very commonplace manner. If more than the usual number of turkeys have been eaten it is due to the increase of the city's population over that of last year. The twenty or more congregations gathered in six churches, which were decorated with fruits and flowers.

Politicians are generally satisfied with the nomination of Elwood Evans for the legislature. The democrats have not selected their candidate.

Quite a number of Thanksgiving entertainments took place this evening.

THANKSGIVING AT SEATTLE

SEATTLE, Nov 28.—Thanksgiving day was the most generally observed of any holiday since the big fire swept over the city and set everyone to work rebuilding. The weather was glorious. It was too nice to be lost by the builders, however, and masons, carpenters and laborers hurried through with turkey dinners to get back to their important work. There was plenty of amusement offered. Several thousand persons gathered at the ball grounds to see a match game of football between the old players, comprising the representatives of leading Eastern and English colleges, and the State University eleven, the Seattles. The game was won after a hard struggle by the old-timers.

THE DAY AT SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 28.—Thanksgiving services were held in most of the leading churches to-day. Many people, however, spent their holiday out of the city, while others with their families visited the parks here or across the bay. The poor of the city seemed to be especially looked after this year, especially in the matter of substantial dinners.

One hundred and thirty five dinners were sent out by the fruit and flower mission. Eighty boys and girls were feasted by the Boys' and Girls' Aid society. Children by what is known as the Children's Day Home. Two hundred and twenty-five pounds of turkey were consumed by 200 persons at the county jail. Four hundred little ones were treated to dinner at St. Francis day Home. Two hundred young men at the Y. M. C. A., and [illegible], and at least 1000 children were fed at the different orphan asylums and [illegible] thousand dinners were sent out [illegible].

[illegible] match of the Occidental [illegible] Ocean View and rowing racing at [illegible] however there was a slim [illegible] work was done. There was [illegible] at Berkeley to witness the fall [illegible] of the Olympic athletic club but no [illegible] were broken by the contestants.

[illegible] Robbed of a Large Sum.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov 28.—Monday night some one, having a key to the door and the combination of the safe of the offices of the Pacific Express Company at the union depot, opened the safe and took from it [illegible]. There is no clew to the robber. Certain employes are known to have had the combination, but are not suspected.

SENATOR JONES'S OPINION

SAN FRANCISCO Nov. 28.—The letter to Governor evenson, of Nevada, from United States Senator hn P Jones has been made public. The letter scusses the question which called the St. Louis ver convention together and the duty of the vernment in the premises. Senator Jones then ds: "I look upon the movement for the remonization of silver as one of the most beneficent at can engage the attention of men In a spirit hope and aspiration which its success presages see a great force for a better and broader growth our republic upon the basis of prosperity d intelligent at one natural and progressive. ith a sufficient volume of money to meet the mands of its increasing population our coun y will place itself in the vanguard of nations r all time to come I o close observer of public ntiment in the United States can for a moment tertain a doubt that a great majority of the ople are in favor of the full remonetization of ver. All that is necessary for them to do, in order to give effect to their desire is to make their voices heard by their representatives in congress and this, as I understand it, they are proposing to do through the instrumentality of the St. Louis convention

TIMBER LAND CLAIMS IN OREGON

The Right of Married Women to File on Them Being Considered.

WASHINGTON Nov 28.—An important question, affecting the right of married women in the state of Oregon to take lands under the United States timber act of June 3, 1878 is now being considered, and will soon be decided by the secretary of the interior The late commissioner of the general land office, Mr Stockslager, decided that married women in Oregon could not take up land under that act, basing his decision wholly on the ground of the provision of the Oregon statutes in relation to the rights of married women in reference to holding and transferring real estate An appeal from this ruling was taken to the secretary, the appellant being Delilah Stuckle. The case in the ordinary course would not have been reached for over a year but as many married women in Oregon have made application to purchase under this act United States Senator Mitchell moved that Secretary Noble advance the Stuckle case which has been done Mr Mitchell regards the decision of Stockslager as wholly untenable.

NEEDS OF THE WEST.

Our Congressmen Will Ask for Some Public Buildings

WASHINGTON, Nov 28—The congressmen from the new states would like to take home with them some public buildings, eight in all, for North Dakota, Montana and Washington. They feel that they need them and they are going to ask for them in plain words. In regard to some of those, congressmen have been to interview the treasury officials, and Congressmen Hansbrough and Wilson at least, are preparing bills in which their requests will be specified. Mr Hansbrough wants a building for Fargo one for Grand Forks and one for Bismarck, to be used for holding United States courts, the customs and postoffice Mr Carter will ask for buildings at Helena and Butte.

Some time ago the condition of the postoffice at Grand Forks N D, was such that its present quarters must be enlarged and the owners asked for an increase of rent. In response to this request an allowance of $12,000 a year for rent has been promised by the treasury officials.

Exciting Football Game Between Yale and Princeton.

THE LATTER WINS THE LAURELS

A Score of Ten to Nothing Made Against Yale—Intense Excitement Among the Spectators—Casualties

NEW YORK, Nov 28.—About 25,000 people witnessed the foot ball game on the Berkeley Oval grounds this afternoon between Yale and Princeton Of these 10,000 were enthusiastic admirers of the brilliant play made by Princeton, while the others supported Yale It was with a feeling of bitter disappointment that the latter who were in the majority by nearly 5000 saw their favorites beaten by Princeton by ten points to nothing in the final and most eventful foot ball game of the year So great was the crowd that full 10 000 were turned away and were unable to secure admission. Those who gained entrance will never forget the scene The deep mud and the sloppy grounds day left its impress on the spectators and made them uncomfortable. The mud was never to the determined and thus smirched the extreme had reached the boiling point. A thousand horns were tooted throughout the game all kinds of unharmonious instruments capable of producing noise were utilized. Hundreds of yellow feathers were brought into the grounds and cost $2 to $5 each and many of the occupants of the carriages never witnessed the latter part of the game so great was the throng. Girls and women were as enthusiastic and cheered as lustily as their male companions The flags of Yale were flapped on every opportunity or pretext and in point of numbers they downed the yellow. The Harvard students were on the ground in full force and almost all of them yelled for Yale and wore blue

The day had dawned bright and all the weather was everything that could be desired At 2 00 o'clock the Yale team came on the field and was greeted with deafening volleys of shouts and tin horn tooting. They jumped and immediately began to roll themselves in the mud The Princeton boys followed their example two minutes later After a bit of preliminary practice the teams took up their positions Princeton had the strongest rush line, but before the game was over one of their best men, George, had his knee cap and the tendons of his ankle broken His injuries were quite serious. An ambulance was called and he was taken to the Murray Hill hotel McClung was also so badly hurt that he had to leave the field. Rhodes of Yale was ruled off for foul tackling. Ames Princeton's full back, carried off the laurels for smart playing

The first half of the game was a desperate struggle with the fortunes fluctuating, and ended with neither side having scored It was in this half of the game that George and McClung were injured and Gill of Yale was also badly hurt having his right ankle sprained but he resumed playing after a short rest

The second half of the game began with a terrific struggle and the contest throughout was more bitter than in the first half Yale made desperate efforts to penetrate Princeton's line, but with poor success. After Princeton had scored six both sides lined up again and played harder than ever Yale was desperate The ball was well down Yale's field at 4 when the crowd began to move out upon the field the ball was then rushed up in Princeton's territory when things sent it back to Yale's end It was then sent back to the center again It went out of the bounds and Yale got it Princeton was fighting as she never fought before The ball was rushed to Yale's end of the field Cowan scored a touch down and time was at this point called The final score was Yale 0 Princeton 10

THE MORNING GAME.

A fair-sized audience witnessed the morning game between the elevens of Wesleyan and the University of Pennsylvania The mud was ankle deep but everybody, ladies and all, tramped around in it as if it wasn't there Andenried was badly hurt toward the close, and Crane was knocked insensible by a kick in the head There were the usual cut faces and bruises and the players were often blinded by the mud The score at the end of the game stood Wesleyan 10 University of Pennsylvania 18 A tally-ho coach loaded with ladies and men turned over No one was hurt but a number of handsome costumes were ruined

AN EXCITING GAME AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO Nov 28.—A great crowd gathered in the base ball park this afternoon, in spite of the fierce cold wind, to witness the annual great foot ball game between the university of Michigan and the Chicago team, composed of graduates of Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Columbia. The game was a fierce one throughout, and resulted in favor of Chicago by a score of twenty to 0. A large number of Michiganders had come to the city in a special train to witness the game. In the latter part of the first inning there were many claims of foul and one man was ruled out. During the confusion of another great struggle Rogers, of Chicago, got a smash on the nose which broke the bone of that useful member and covered him with blood. Prettyman Michigan's center rusher was ruled off for the mishap and carried a bad black eye with him

A HEART BROKEN FATHER.

He Finds His Daughter Who Refuses to Live With Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 28.—August Severin, who a few days ago found his son in Seattle after a ten years search, arrived in this city a few days ago in search of his daughter Isalina, who, he stated had fled to this city from Portland and refused to return to him

The young girl was seen to-night at her home No 225 Jessie street with Edward Fontineau and his wife, and she made the following statement "I never knew my father and never saw him to my recollection until to-day, when he called to see me here. His name is August Severin, and he says he is an engraver. The first information that I ever had that my father was living was when I read it in newspapers a few days ago. When he called to-day he said that he wanted me to go and live with him, and I told him that I would not go because I did not know him and thought more of my uncle Eddy, I call Mr Fontineau by that name My father then said that if I would not go with him he would go to law and take me by force I told him he would have to do that as I would not go to him. I never said that I would poison him if he took me. I told him that if I was forced to go with him I would take poison myself He has married again, and as I had enough of stepfather I did not want to try a stepmother I am perfectly happy where I am continued Lena and before I would desert them I fly to go to him I would do something terrible

The father it is stated will apply to the courts for the possession of his child, who in the meantime remains with her adopted parent.

A CAPTAIN'S TROUBLES

He Secures a Crew in Spite of the Coast Seamen's Union.

SAN FRANCISCO Nov 28.—The barkentine Discovery left for Honolulu to-day despite the efforts of the coast seamen's union to prevent Captain McNeil from shipping a crew Yesterday several men were taken from the bark being non-union sailors and thirty 300 men from the union patrolled the wharves and guarded the sailor boarding houses during the night Captain McNeil succeeded however in getting a new crew aboard and this morning a number of boats with union men put off to the Discovery and attempted to board her They were intimidated by the appearance of Captain McNeil with a loaded revolver but succeeded in inducing the crew to leave the vessel, and they were rowed ashore A number of the union men on returning were arrested by Officer Egan for having taken a boat belonging to the bark Several shots were fired at them by the officer The matter was settled by the man in charge of the boat stating that he had let it out Captain McNeil in the meantime, secured a crew of six men and was on the way back to the vessel accompanied by several policemen A large crowd of union men attempted at the dock to prevent the crew from leaving but were dispersed by the police and the men were safely gotten aboard The police remained with the vessel until she left.

TURKEY GOES A-BEGGING

The San Francisco Market Glutted With Birds

SAN FRANCISCO Nov 28.—There was a complete glut in the turkey market for the two days preceding Thanksgiving and in many cases birds arrived from the East in bad condition and proved unsalable Prices were however sustained dealers being evidently prepared to risk loss from spoiled birds rather than accept low prices. The coast turkeys sold easily at from 20 to cents per pound but Eastern stock went off badly It was learned this evening that many hundreds of pounds of turkey flesh would have to be disposed of for manure or thrown away, the poorer class of buyers having no opportunity of purchasing birds at a moderate price while still fresh enough to be eaten

CALIFORNIA NEWS ITEMS

San Francisco Market Review

SAN FRANCISCO Nov 27.—A general feeling of confidence pervades the mercantile community, as a good year is confidently expected

Cereals continue uninteresting Wheat is weak, and lower chiefly because freights are stronger and the demand for it is slack Oats show no change in price and are in ample supply and quiet Corn is in enormous supply and although the price is again lowered buyers do not touch it.

Bran and middlings have again been marked down, with the unusual abundance of green grass, and are now comparatively cheap

Flour is in fair demand, and superfine grades are lower

Produce continues uninteresting with a few varieties

Hops are stagnant as usual at 6 to 8 cents per pound which are discouraging figures for the grower

Wool is moving off well at last week's prices, the local scouring mills taking about 100 000 pounds per week and outside buyers from nothing up to 250 000 pounds.

Raisins continue to move steadily Eastward, and there is more or less call for prunes peaches and apples but as a general thing dried fruits are quiet The bulk of the crop has already gone Eastward however, at prices highly satisfactory This has been a good all round year for California fruit growers.

Dairy products are about as last reported butter being in heavy supply and remarkably low for this time of the year, and eggs being scarce and dear Good to choice butter is now going at 20 to cents per pound, while fresh eggs are quoted at 40 to 4 ½ cents per dozen, with 50 cents and even higher paid for something extra

The only change in live stock is a decline of ½ cent per pound in beef The arrivals of hogs continue free. Mutton is easy, but no lower Veal is steady and lambs are firm and scarce

Provisions are quiet being affected by the recent fire.

Salmon is quiet at previous prices with ample stocks to draw on

THE MINERAL LAND CONVENTION

Millions of Acres Unsurveyed—The Surveyor General's New Plan—Carrington's Mission to the Bitter Root Indians

HELENA Mon Nov 28.—The mineral land convention which convenes here to-morrow has unquestionably a severe task before it and will have to enter into a bitter fight with the Northern Pacific railway over the mineral lands to which the company are trying to obtain title Some of these lands have been known to contain mineral and have been worked years before the Northern Pacific reached Montana and the granting of patents to the company would mean ruin to a large number of men who have spent years of toil and all their means in the development of these claims Just what the outcome will be and what course the convention proposes to pursue is all a matter of conjecture at the present writing The people are aroused to the importance of the subject and interesting meetings may be expected

To give a conception of what area Montana possesses it may be interesting to add a few statistical facts There are at present in this state over sixty million acres of unsurveyed lands representing about two thirds of Montana's public domain Of this a great deal is mountainous land which perchance will never be surveyed unless mining enterprises find their way to every nook and corner To survey all the land would require the establishment of about 300 new townships Surveyor General Eaton in conversation with several newspaper men, stated that he would recommend a new system of making surveys He thinks the old one altogether wrong, and will suggest that the government deal directly with the subcontractors in making surveys The appropriation for next year amounts to $5,000 of which $15 000 is a special one for the lately opened Indian reservation on Milk river, leaving but little for other sections.

General Carrington's mission to the Indians in the Bitter Root valley which has been carried on most successfully, is not without a tinge of romance It took weeks to accomplish the task of getting fifty-one Indian tracts bought up, and to obtain their owners consent to be removed to the reservation of the Flatheads on the Jocko river

We are not surprised, but gratified to learn that our prediction as to the success of general Carrington's mission to the Flathead Indians, of the Bitter Root valley has been a complete success" remarks the Missoula Gazet Chief Carlos has fully accepted General Carrington's proposition, after days of conference. We know of nothing in Cooper's novels or the romance of the frontier life more interesting than some of the scenes of the last two years at which one recorder was present Carlos had said I said I will never sign away my father's lands. I will kill myself first I will never change my mind. The people will say Carlos is a liar

A long pause ensued General Carrington quietly asked his interpreter if any of the Indians present wished to sign. Three came forward and signed More than half of the Indians claiming land had already signed.

Then Carrington in the most quiet manner possible said to Carlos If you do not want to sign I do not wish it. Decide for yourself. You may say to-morrow I will plow and the next day, I will sow But if to-morrow finds the ground frozen like a rock and the next day brings snow above your leggins, you will change your mind, or the women and boys will say that Carlos is crazy or a fool. God alone changes not He is the great and brave man who when wrong, conquers himself God's own message to his children, red or white says He that conquers himself is greater than he who builds or conquers great cities I have come here to carry the whole Flathead tribe to a safe and happy home on the Jocko reservation. I shall do it Don't get in my way, but come on the train with me and the rest You can not stop me. You only hurt yourself and I shall order the Flathead Indians to elect a new chief I honor your father Victor His spirit would say to you 'Carlos keep my people from whisky and gambling Do as the white chief says, go to Jocko

The papers were signed and Carlos took supper with the general his last request being that the graves near the mission be protected General Carrington then began a personal visit to the fifty one Indians to appraise the land This provides fifty one homes of the very best promising lands to a like number of families.

IDEAL BROILING.

Broiling can be done in the oven of the Charter Oak Range or Stove with the Wire Gauze Oven Door, more perfectly than over the live coals.

Lay the steak, chops, ham or fish on a wire broiler or meat rack, placing it in an ordinary bake pan to catch the drippings.

Allow it to remain in the oven with the door closed 15 or 20 minutes. No turning is required. At the end of this time it will be found nicely cooked ready to serve. THIS IS THE IDEAL WAY TO BROIL MEATS.

There is no taint of coal-gas or smoke, and the meats are more tender and better in flavor than those broiled over the coals. The convenience of broiling in the oven will be appreciated by every house-keeper, and adds another to the many reasons why the Charter Oak Range or Stove with the Wire Gauze Oven Door should be preferred to all others now in the market.

DRS. DARRIN'S NEW OFFICE.

The Doctors Will Move From 235 Fifth Street to the New Washington Building December First.

Owing to the increased patronage Dr. Darrin has received during his sojourn in Portland the past three years, he has been compelled to enlarge his quarters, and has secured four elegant rooms in the new Washington building, corner of fourth and Washington streets The building has an elevator thus obviating the necessity of walking up stairs to the second floor where the Doctor's offices are located. The elevator boy will direct any one asking for Dr Darrin's office. Separate reception rooms for ladies and gentlemen, or any desiring private consultation. Remember the change, that after December first the offices will be at the Washington Block, until then at 235 Fifth street. Patients coming to the office before locating themselves, as it is necessary in many cases to have them near the office. Patients will guard against being influenced by any one directing them to other doctors. As a further proof of the Doctor's ability to cure people by electricity, we mention the following names:

Ex-sheriff A. T. Schoep's daughter, proprietor Northwestern hotel, corner Front and Clay streets, Portland, loss of appetite, liver complaint and rheumatic neuralgia for six months, cured.

Wm. M. Colwell, Skamokawa, Wash., sciatic rheumatism and liver complaint, restored to health, also his brother, Geo. L. Colwell, Skamokawa, Wash., was cured of a numbness of the arm.

Mrs. E Ahlf, 100 North Fourteenth street, Portland, cured after nine doctors had failed, of painful menstruation and womb trouble in every conceivable way, general debility, pain through the heart and lungs.

Charles Christerman, Portland, Oregon, scrofulous catarrh so bad that destruction of the nose was threatened and had become so offensive that it was sickening both to himself and friends, cured in two months.

C. McLaughlin, Portland—Catarrhal deafness, could scarcely hear a sound or the car bells and was in constant fear of being run over by wagons, cured so he can hear ordinary conversation.

Levi Bartmes, Stayton, Or., heart disease, dyspepsia pain through the heart and lungs, and general nervous debility, many times he would fall as though dead, when everything seemed to turn black before his eyes; successfully treated.

D Campbell, Fulton, Or., says he would not take $10,000 for the cure he received by Dr Darren. His trouble originated by three small lumps or tumors coming on the arm, which rendered his arm and hand perfectly helpless for one year.

MR. GEER TO MR. DAVENPORT

Spice of Personalities, but All in Good Humor.

Neighbors and Friends Who See Things With Keen Eyes, and Yet Don't See Alike.

Cove, Union County, Or., Nov. 22.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

After my recent exhaustive interpretation of certain scriptural texts for the benefit of my prohibition friends, I hied myself away to these mountain fastnesses for a season of fasting and prayer; but even here, The Daily Oregonian, which goes everywhere, has brought to my notice the lagging reply of Mr. C. W. Davenport to a letter of mine published nearly two months ago.

Merely to hear from Mr. Davenport, and thus be assured that he is still among the living, is a comfort to many of his old friends, to whom he has become a political back number—a "reformer," in fact, from the headwaters of the feeble stream of prohibition.

So far as Mr. Davenport's remarks are personal to myself, he has failed to make his letter interesting from the sheer absence of an interesting subject; and since it is mostly personal, it necessarily falls below the usual standard of excellence reached by his literary efforts.

In his frantic endeavor to find fault with my legislative record he misstates facts so wilfully that I am almost personally sorry for him and can partly wish that I had committed more legislative misdemeanors, that he might have made a more creditable reply to my criticism of his "union party."

His first objection is, that The Oregonian reported his speech incorrectly. Now, I never referred to any part of his reported speech, except his statement that "this is a government of knaves by knaves and for knaves," and in his explanation attempting to show that The Oregonian misquoted him he admits that he used exactly that language. So, in that respect, your reporter and myself are supported by Mr. Davenport's final testimony.

Mr. Davenport insists that I have been "converted" several times to his ideas of "reform," but would never "stay converted," and even refers to the baldheaded member of the state senate who would "stay bought," as a man of "stern stuff," who, in that respect, had the pronounced elements of a "reformer" in him.

I have never been "converted" to any theory in my life that even impliedly severed my connection with the republican party and never even temporarily espoused any cause that indirectly looked toward the defeat of any candidate of that party. I have never experienced any "conversion" that in any way affected the validity of the baptism I received as a boy in 1851 into the ranks of the republican party. I have "stayed converted" under all circumstances.

Can Mr. D. say as much? Under present circumstances nothing could furnish more public amusement than the reflection that in 1874 Mr. D. was "converted" from being a life-long republican to the leadership of the "independent" party, and as its candidate for congress, defeated the republican candidate for a seat in that body. Eight years later he was converted back to the republican party, and "stumped" Marion county for the success of its candidates in that county, and he was one of them. Within two years from the expiration of his term of office as a republican state senator, he was again "converted," to the prohibition party, this time, and did all he could to further its success.

Now, it is a matter of public record that Mr. D. has been to the mourners' bench three times within fourteen years and has each time announced a change of heart and a public conversion. He is not a "baldheaded man wearing specks," but he doesn't "stay converted" half so well as that individual "staid bought." To use his own language, "All will admit that reformers are made of sterner stuff."

It is seldom the public has to listen to a sillier claim than the one that, because a republican voted for the prohibition amendment two years ago, he thereby became a member of the prohibition party. Republicans were constantly assured by the leaders of that movement that they ought to support it because it was submitted when no other question was involved, and I distinctly remember that public notices printed announcing that I would speak at a certain place were headed "Non-Partisan Campaign;" and yet with all these promises, with an effrontery impossible to find elsewhere, they claim it was a partisan campaign, to the extent that every man who supported the amendment was "converted" from the party of his original membership to an allegiance to the prohibition party.

Talk about "partisan bulldozing and broken promises!" These offenses, in all their elaborate completeness, are illustrated nowhere so sublimely as in the absolute dishonesty of those who claim that every man who voted for the amendment was converted from his previous party affiliations.

I wouldn't support prohibition now, because, if for no other reason, the New England states which have tried it for thirty years are rejecting it as utterly impracticable.

As for woman suffrage, the men of this country have voted for a hundred years, and the women have not, and no man dares say that to-day the women are not our equals in morals and intelligence, and every other attribute that goes to the formation of a cultured and virtuous society. The women have progressed as rapidly without the ballot as we have with it, and until we are assured, as we are not now, that the better class of women would vote it would be a culpable lack of statesmanship to grant a privilege that a majority of the best women would not accept.

But the unkindest cut of all is Mr. Davenport's charge that I was once a granger, but that during the last session of the legislature my brethren saw me going down and had to "hold me up in blocks of five."

Now, during the last session of the legislature there was only one measure that divided the grangers from other classes of citizens, and that was the Bull Run water bill, and to test the "stuff" of Mr. Davenport as a reformer, I hereby challenge him to name any man who will say that from my first opposition to that bill I ever wavered for a moment in my position. Nothing could possibly please me better than for Mr. Davenport to name the man who will say that I had to be urged to support "granger legislation" in any form.

In fact, my record went so far to the other extreme that The Oregonian editorially blamed me for it, and yet Mr. Davenport has the audacity to say—but then he is a modern "reformer."

The only other "point" in Mr. D.'s letter is that I am not a safe representative of the people because I "obey the wishes of the party bosses." The only effort made in the last legislature to influence my vote was an honorable attempt to induce me to support the Portland water bill, which was made by the republican leaders in both houses, but through it all I stood by the democratic governor, to the extent that, I have since been informed, he actually expected me to support him next June. I pleased the democratic governor better than the "party bosses," ten to one. But a "reformer" must have something to growl about.

For the life of me I cannot guess what kind of company Mr. Davenport has kept during his political career to have discovered so much rascality and dishonesty. Men of that character have never approached me, and I am not afraid they ever will.

Mr. Davenport is sorry that I have become a convert to the doctrine that it is necessary for manhood to be surrounded by temptations in order to develop a character that will elevate us above the brutes. I am not nearly so firm a believer in that idea as Professor Hock, of Salem, who assisted Mr. Davenport in organizing the "union party" and who is now engaged in canvassing the state in the interest of that party.

He and I are personal friends, and will remain such, and in that spirit I request him to furnish the public with the instance in my legislative career where I lacked sufficient "inside braces to resist outside pressure." Surely, I have been heretofore more blamed with obstinacy in that direction than a disposition to undue subserviency to others.

The professor preaches it in all his sermons, and Mr. Davenport should swallow the pill uncomplainingly, for the professor is the Paul of the "reform" movement, while Mr. Davenport is only its Timothy.

But there is one question that will overshadow all these in public interest, and that is the charge of Mr. Davenport and his new party, that "giant monopolies" and trusts are forcing the common people to "degradation and pauperism." In my letter, to which he devotes his attention, I asked him to show some instances in proof of his charge, but his reply dodges all this, and he confines himself to personal matters.

Now, in the kindest spirit possible, I will give Mr. Davenport a text for a communication to The Oregonian that will be of some interest to the people generally. I desire him to name some one important privilege he enjoyed forty years ago, or that his father ever enjoyed, which any monopoly or trust anywhere, from Maine to Oregon, withholds from him to-day.

For every one such he may indicate, I will agree to name a dozen he enjoys that his father never dreamed of. I don't like monopolies and trusts any better than any other farmer; but I do sometimes, become tired listening to the unlimited nonsense of men who mistake a constitutional disposition to growl for the "stern stuff" of which "reformers" are made.

Now let us wait for Mr. Davenport's reply. Timid people will please stand from under.

IT WILL BE A COLD WINTER.

The Fur Hunters Say So, and the Snow Buntings Have Come.

New Westminster Columbian.

The first shipment of furs this season from Westminster was made this morning by W. H. Vianen, who shipped 280 fine skins, principally bear, mink, beaver and mountain goat. The Indians have brought a lot of furs to market during the last week, and from them it is learned that furs are likely to be plentiful and of extra good quality this winter. The Indians still adhere to their predictions of a few months ago that the coming winter will be very severe, and if this is correct the quality of furs is certain to be over the average.

Pendleton Tribune.

Pah-dé-kah, an Indian from up the Columbia river, brought into town yesterday a snow bunting that he had killed up the country, and for which he desired $10. The presence of these birds so far south at this time of the year is said by the weather prophets to be a sure indication that the coming winter will be severe. The snow buntings remain up in the glacier country until the snow falls so thickly that they can obtain no more food. They then come south.

Tracklaying Delayed by Lack of Steel—Extension to Burke.

Wardner Free Press.

The grading at Osburn, which was delayed by litigation, will be finished next week. The grading below Wallace is also nearing completion, and the tracklayers will not be delayed when they come this way. The last heard of the end of the track during the week it was at Kingston. It is creeping along very slowly, which is said to be owing to the lack of steel.

Wardner News.

The building of the Washington & Idaho railroad is to be extended to Burke, and the grading of the road to that point will be commenced immediately and pushed with all vigor. This will be a cause for much rejoicing for the mining men of that vast mineral region.

WHERE ROAMS THE HONEY BEE.

The Hollow Trees of King County Full of Sweet Juice.

Kent Advertiser.

That this is the natural and perfect home of the honey bee is quite effectively established by the fact that literally "the woods are full of them." They lodge in every forest, and in a wild state store thousands of pounds of honey in the great trees where excavations are so numerously found.

M. P. A. Harms cut a cottonwood on Mr. Kane's farm from which he saved over 700 pounds of honey, and there was no way of satisfactorily estimating how much was destroyed in the capture. Dave Neely cut a spruce from which he saved thirty gallons of strained honey, and lost more than he saved. The cavity, which extended twenty-five feet in the body of the tree, varying in diameter from eight or ten inches to two feet, was full of charged comb.

It is not an event that is considered worthy of remark to have a new top box set on a bee-stand and to cut from it a cubic foot of comb, fully charged, in from ten to fourteen days. Mr. J. T. Stewart, Captain J. J. Crow and others do this often every season, and regard it as a matter of course, not worthy of reference or mention. Mr. Neely discovered a swarm settling on a bush last summer and hived them in an ordinary canned-fruit case, and in twenty days the box was full of honey.

THE STORM AT YAQUINA BAY.

Particulars of the Damage by Lightning to the Old Lighthouse.

Yaquina Republican.

On Tuesday morning this section was visited by a genuine thunder storm, an occurrence very unusual on this part of the coast. The lightning reminded us of the storms in the East. At least two bolts struck on the bay. The first struck the old lighthouse building, now occupied as a residence by J. S. Polhemus, the engineer in charge of the government works here. The bolt struck the front of the house about half way to the eaves and over a window in the southwest corner. This window was smashed to pieces and the casing stool split into kindling wood. Mrs. Polhemus and her little boy were sitting in the room not over six feet from the window. The furniture in the room was knocked topsy-turvey and some of it broken. The plastering was rent and broken off, and pictures on the walls were forced from their frames. Mrs. Polhemus and her child were only stunned. It is a wonder they were not instantly killed. The lightning seemed to travel all around the outside of the the house, following the tin spouting and breaking the windows and casings promiscuously. The spouting was broken and riddled as if shot by buckshot. The solid brick wall in the basement under the window where the bolt struck was rent and cracked. A spray of the fluid seemed to have jumped from the house and struck the heavy gate in rear of the yard, fifty feet away, and made it into kindling wood. There is a rod on the lamp tower but the lightning completely ignored it. There was a young girl in the kitchen but she was not injured although the electricity played a merry jig about that part of the house. Mr. Polhemus was at Yaquina during the storm.

THANKSGIVING BERRIES.

The November Small Fruit Harvest in Progress in Washington.

Centralia News.

Mr. Joseph Shimek, living three miles above Centralia, on Hannaford swamp, sent to our office this morning ripe strawberries which grew in the open air in his garden. Our Eastern friends will hardly believe that while they are ice and snow bound we are enjoying fresh fruits and vegetables and basking in sunshine.

La Camas News.

There were brought to this office on Wednesday, from the garden of Mrs. Gove, of this town, several cuttings of raspberries loaded with their fruit in all stages, from juicy red to green, and this when Thanksgiving is not a week off.

DR. LIEBIG'S LOST HEALTH INVIGORATOR
[illegible] Wonderful GERMAN Invigorator.
THE OLDEST GREATEST AND BEST REMEDY for the cure of Nervous and Physical Debility Vital Exhaustion, Seminal Weakness, Loss of Manhood, Failing Memory, and Relaxed and Enfeebled Condition of the Genito-Urinary Organs.
It speedily cures Impotence, Early Decay Loss of Vigor, SEMINAL WEAKNESS, and all the veal effects of youthful follies and abuse, or EXCESSES OF MATURITY.
It permanently prevents all unnatural loss from the system, as thousands can attest who have used the Remedy in the past quarter of a century which it has been before the public.
It is indeed a wonderful remedy—toning the nerves, strengthening the muscles, checking the waste, invigorating the whole system and restoring the afflicted to HEALTH and HAPPINESS.
The reason so many cannot be cured of Weakness and the above diseases is owing to complication called PROSTATORRHEA with Hyperesthesia, which requires special treatment.
DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2, with our peculiar special treatment, is the only possible cure for PROSTATORRHEA. By it MANHOOD is restored, and the hand of time moved back from age to youth.
Price of either Invigorator, $2. Case of six bottles, $10. Sent to any address, covered securely from observation.
Dr. Liebig & Co. treat successfully by Homeopathy every form of SPECIAL, PRIVATE or CHRONIC DISEASES without mercury or nauseous drugs. If vitality is drained from the body, numerous diseases follow that baffle ordinary medical treatment. If allowed to continue, the unnatural loss causes Consumption, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Insanity, etc. Cures guaranteed. Diseases of the Genito-Urinary organs, kidneys, liver and bladder specially treated. DISEASES OF WOMEN SPEEDILY CURED.
Qualified and Responsible.—Dr. Liebig & Co. from Europe, are regular college educated physicians and are now in their nineteenth year of special practice.
If pimples appear on the face and body, if you become listless and easily tired and exhausted, look out for the complication with Seminal Weakness, discovered at the LIEBIG DISPENSARY, known as Prostatorrhea. DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2 is the only known remedy for the above complication, Prostatorrhea.
Most powerful electric belts free to patrons.
To prove the wonderful power of the Invigorator, a $2 bottle given or sent free.
Consultation free and private.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS
A NEW TREATMENT.
Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been discovered which permanently cures the most aggravated cases of these distressing diseases by a few simple applications made (two weeks apart) by the patient at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free by A. H. DIXON & SON, 337 and 339 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.

The Oregon Pacific steamer Wm. M. Hoag, which made the run from Portland to Salem Wednesday in eight hours and thirty-eight minutes, made nine landings and carried thirty five tons of freight. This, the officers of the Hoag claim, is the best time ever made by a steamboat from Portland under like conditions. The Hoag made the same run two years ago, in eight hours and thirty minutes but carried no freight and made but one landing on that trip. The officers of the Hoag are confident that the Hoag can beat the Modoc or Orient at least one hour in the run from Portland to Salem. The time made by the Hoag, says the Salem Statesman, is over an hour better than was made by the Orient a year ago in her race with the Bentley and Modoc. It is quite certain the O. R. & N. will make an attempt to lower this record, and soon interesting races may be looked for along the river.

George Molenkopf, of near Pendleton, has a collection of remarkable fossils discovered by him on his ranch. He unearthed them in a canyon in a strata ten feet below the surface and, judging by their position and surroundings, they have been lying there for thousands of years. The relics are those of a mastodon, and although the skeleton is not complete, there are sufficient bones to show that the animal was twice as large as any now found on the face of the globe, including even the huge Asiatic elephant. In proportion to the joints and estimating according to the animals on earth now a days the monster was certainly not less than fourteen feet high. The joint from the knee to the thigh is thirty-one inches in length and the swivel joint is seven inches in diameter, whereas that of a horse is only two inches. The bones are in an excellent state of preservation and Molenkopf tells the Tribune that he intends to donate them to the State Agricultural college.

The Carl Gilbert estate before the probate court in Salem, says the Statesman, brings up a recollection of the late proprietor, who died on his place, three miles southwest of Turner, a little over a year ago. Consumption claimed him at 30. Letters came to Salem addressed to him from their superscriptions as "count." Relatives in Germany were reported to be very wealthy. Soon after his appointment one of the appraisers, looking over the effects of the deceased, came across a likeness of the count taken eight or nine years ago. It showed a remarkably fine looking man in the uniform of a captain of Prussian cuirassiers. Also claiming inventory was the uniform itself, cuirass, helmet, gloves, sword, buckskin tights and a magnificent pair of leather, spur mounted hip boots. The captain possessed a large German library that appeared on the list at $400, not a quarter of its value. During his four years' residence in the republic in Marion county, Captain Gilbert gained an honest regard for his abilities as a plain American citizen.

CASE OF EULE SAWYER.—In the United States district court yesterday, the case of Eule Sawyer arrested by United States Marshal Myers on information from Illinois charging him with passing a counterfeit bill came up for hearing on the application for a warrant of extradition. The matter was argued and taken under advisement by Judge Deady.

SUPPLY OF TURKEYS.—The supply of turkeys for Thanksgiving was not so extensive this year as usual so there will not be so many getting "cold turkey" as usual. A man who was out hunting wild turkeys says there are plenty in the county, but people are holding them back for the Christmas market. They will be big and fat by that time.

PROPOSED CITY HALL.—The committee of the council, Messrs Fliedner, Forbes and Geddes appointed to look up a suitable block for a site for the proposed city hall, have had options offered them on several pieces of property and will probably report at the next meeting of the council.

WORK HAS COMMENCED.—Work on the brick foundation of the new Portland hospital in East Portland has been commenced, and with a good force of men, the structure will soon assume proportions. The building will be one of the finest for hospital purposes in the Northwest.

THE SOCIAL CIRCLE which will be held tonight at Madame Leitsworth's parlors promises to be a pleasant affair. Several mediums will be in attendance and all are invited to come and bring their friends. 230½ First street.

MILITARY ORDERS

Under date of Vancouver, November 2[illegible], the following military orders have been issued:

In compliance with instructions from the division commander, First Lieutenant L. A. Lovering, Fourth infantry, aide-de-camp, with two enlisted men as guard will proceed at once to Alcatraz island, Cal., in charge of Indian prisoner (Sko-askin).

The quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation and the subsistence department commutation of rations for the enlisted men at the prescribed rate for the necessary number of days it being impracticable to carry out ones of any kind.

Captain Gerhard L. Luhn, Fourth infantry, having completed the duty directed in orders No. 204 current series, Fort Spokane, will return to his proper station.

A ROGUES' GALLERY

Superintendent Downing Making Arrangements to Establish One at the Penitentiary.

The Salem Statesman of Thursday has the following:

Superintendent Downing is making arrangements for establishing at the Oregon state penitentiary what is known as the rogues' gallery. Every state in the Union perhaps, except Oregon and Washington have such, and Oregon proposes to keep up with them. Arrangements are being made by which a first class camera will be secured and when a new prisoner is introduced at the penitentiary he will be photographed immediately upon his arrival. He will be shaved and dressed in stripes when the camera will be turned upon him for a second time. And during the term of his servitude he will be photographed in different styles of beard. These photographs will be preserved, together with an accurate description of the man and should he ever be wanted again it will not be difficult to identify him. A printing press and type will be purchased and the description published in pamphlet form. It is proposed to raise funds for the purchase of camera, type, press, etc., among the sheriffs of the different counties. For this purpose the superintendent is about to issue a circular letter to the sheriffs of the different counties of the state. The idea of establishing a rogues' gallery is a good one and should be carried into completion.

AT THE THEATERS

NEW PARK THEATER.—"Around the World in Eighty Days" drew the best house of the week last night and the matinee also brought out a good attendance. The play runs the remainder of the week with a matinee on Saturday.

HELEN BLYTHE.

Next week this talented American actress will begin a week's engagement in her success "A Mother's Love." An exchange says of her performance in the play:

Miss Helen Blythe ably sustained her reputation as one of the leading American actresses of the day. In the pathetic and emotional parts of the play she held the entire audience spell bound, and was called before the curtain repeatedly. The scene in which in the character of a beggar woman she seeks and finds her child displayed in a striking and effective manner her ability to portray entirely different characters in almost the same moment of time.

CORDRAY'S MUSEE THEATER.

"Standing room only" was the sign at this popular house again last night and "The Ticket of Leave Man" seems to have caught the people. It is finely staged and all the company appeared to the best advantage.

CONCERNING SILVER.

The silver men are demanding unlimited coinage. The law now permits the mints to turn out from 2,000 000 to 4,000,000 standard silver dollars per month. The government has thus far confined itself to the minimum figure, and even at that the treasury vaults are piled high with millions and millions of the coins, which the people will not take, preferring instead the certificates represented by this cumbersome currency.

At the silver convention now in session at St. Louis it is urged that congress shall authorize the coinage of all the silver that offers—ignoring the fact that the value, in present proportions, is far below that of gold, and that, as a consequence, if silver shall be coined without limit in the United States, gold will certainly take its flight from this country. Our congress cannot legislate for the world on this or any other subject, and consequently cannot maintain unlimited silver upon a basis which other countries will not accept.

Mr Robert Giffen, an English writer of high authority on economic subjects, in a recent article in the Nineteenth Century makes the radical assertion which seems to be perfectly true, that a government has no more power to fix the ratio at which gold and silver coins will exchange with each other than it has to fix the ratio at which timber will exchange for pig iron. His arguments are thus summed up "The precious metals are merely merchandise, whether used for money or not The ratio at which they may exchange is determined as that between copper and wheat, between beef and shoes The uses of gold and silver for non monetary purposes are much greater than is commonly supposed and thus their money use is not preponderant, but in any case their use as money does not regulate the ratio of their exchange with other articles different from that which regulates the ratio of exchange in the cases of other commodities. It is the going price of other commodities which is the dominant factor in fixing the value of money Prices do not rise or fall in accord with the amount of metal used for money purposes, consequently bimetallism is founded upon an utter misconception of the relations between the precious metals and other commodities, the way in which a ratio is established between them, and the degree of interchangeability between the metals themselves "

This is the view as to silver and the relations of gold and silver, upon which the general business of the world is transacted, and since our congress cannot legislate for the world, no act of our congress on the subject can change these conditions

IN THE INTEREST OF AGRICULTURE

Secretary Rusk, in the first report issued by the new department of agriculture, furnishes a document full of interest to farmers and to all others engaged in industries related thereto. The secretary urges, as a matter of primary importance, that the government shall make for the purposes of this department an allowance adequate to the requirements of a great agricultural country The appropriations for the current year were insufficient to meet the expenses, an oversight that he claims should not occur in a matter of such importance. The amounts that other nations appropriate for this purpose are given, showing by comparison the niggardliness of the sum set apart for the work in the United States

The new division established—through which the press is furnished a synopsis of the main points of every bulletin and report—has been found to work exceedingly well, and the press of the country is complimented upon its cordial co operation with this feature of the work

Among the things that have received the careful attention of the secretary is the manner of purchasing seeds and the distribution of such varieties as shall prove to be of value after they have been tested, and he regards a well-furnished library and a well filled museum as indispensable to the purposes of the department It is further recommended that the department encourage the formation of agricultural organizations and farmers' institutes The adoption of a national meat-inspection law is urged, as is also the close supervision of the economic side of the cattle markets and the establishment of a special division of the department for the promotion of the dairy interest.

The reduction of the tariff on wool in 1883 is earnestly deplored To this is attributed the reduction in the number of sheep in this country, the decrease aggregating about 7,000,000 head, while the importation of wool has increased from 78 350 551 pounds in 1884 to 126 487 729 pounds last year.

As shown by his report the annual yield of the industries and interests embraced under the general head of agriculture aggregate $4 000 000,000 On the 5,000,000 farms 10 000 000 persons are employed, while the value of live stock alone is estimated at $2,-907 000,000

The entire report shows not only painstaking care on the part of the secretary, but an earnestness in the work of the department which amounts to enthusiasm It will be to the benefit of those to whom this report is specially addressed if this earnestness and enthusiasm in the vocation of agriculture becomes contagious There is no reason why the ways and means employed in this vast industry should remain upon the basis of happy go lucky ignorance that insures nothing to hundreds of farmers beyond a hand-to-mouth living A general dissemination of the knowledge gleaned from careful experiments made under the supervision of the department cannot fail to improve the methods of agriculture and add largely, not only to its assets but to the interest in the vocation of those who engage in it Fully one-half of the discontents that cling to rural life might be removed and the remainder greatly softened by an intelligent earnestness that is calculated to bring out the best results and make room for many pleasures that are myths under the old combination of drudgery and luck that makes the yields of agriculture more or less an uncertainty and the homes of its laborers the abodes of discomfort, slovenliness and discontent.

AHEAD OF COLUMBUS

At Watertown Mass, on the 21st of November, as Boston journals tell us was celebrated the discovery of the site of the ancient city of Norumbega a classical North American ruin supposed for many years to be a myth Professor Eben Norton Horsford of Harvard university has been making explorations in the vicinity of the junction of the Charles river with Stony brook Massachusetts where he found much which, even at the outset, convinced him that the Norsemen really built a city on the Massachusetts coast in the ancient days ere written American history began

The more he explored the more Professor Horsford believed that Norumbega had actually once been a reality. He found the remains of canals dikes artificial ponds, fragments of dwelling houses and amphitheater walls scattered about throughout the district embraced in his search He has made from time to time, various reports on his discoveries and at yesterday's celebration announced the finding of proofs locating the ancient home of old Lief Ericsson, America's reputed original discoverer

Unless Professor Horsford has in some strange way deceived himself, his labors merit far greater honor and recognition than were accorded them by yesterday's celebration. And if he can prove his case it will appear that Lief Ericsson discovered this country long before Christopher Columbus was born In fact it has long been regarded as settled by antiquarians that the Norsemen, or Northmen, from Iceland and Greenland, discovered the continent of America nearly 500 years before the times of Columbus, and there is reason to believe they sailed down the coast as far as Cape May

RECOGNIZING THE BRAZIL REPUBLIC.

As yet no steps have been taken by the government of the United States toward recognizing the independence of the people of Brazil and the establishment in that country of a republican form of government. Obviously the policy which this nation should pursue is to cultivate friendly relations with the provisional government of Brazil which has already shown itself to be not only thoroughly patriotic, but also sensible in the highest degree of the necessities of the people and of the rights which they have to determine for themselves who shall constitute their executive judicial and legislative representatives It is true that Secretary Blaine has received the Brazilian representatives at Washington as entitled to act for that country now as in the past, but this does not mean that our government has yet recognized the ultimate authority of Senhor Da Fonseca The representatives of the Brazilian empire, whose various diplomatic negotiations were interrupted by the overthrow of the emperor, have simply renewed their suspended functions These they ceased to exercise of their own motion Now fortified with the authority of the revolutionary leaders at home, they return to their work and are received by Secretary Blaine as entitled to act for Brazil Just such a case as this has never before arisen in our history, though only the circumstance of an exceptional diplomatic intercourse at the moment of revolution makes it materially different from that attending the bloodless triumph of Jimenez in Costa Rica, in 1868

But Secretary Blaine may deal with these representatives of a revolutionary party in a foreign country without, by any means, implying that the United States is committed to the Brazil republic The recognition of a new state, or even of a new and novel government established by revolution in an old state, is an act of much delicacy and responsibility, and is a matter not of inference, but of formal action In the matter of the recognition of sovereignty as in many other propositions of international law, the policy of the United States, originally formed by its earliest statesmen, not according to the dictates of European diplomacy, but according to their own quicker conscience and freer judgment and bold consistency throughout all changes of administration, has come to be received by enlightened peoples everywhere as ethically correct and politically sagacious It was partially announced by President Washington, through Secretary Jefferson, as early as in 1792 and then made applicable to the state of affairs in France "It accords with our principles," said Jefferson, "to acknowledge any government to be rightful which is formed by the will of the nation substantially expressed " Van Buren, while secretary of state, went to the extreme of declaring that "so far as we are concerned, that which is the government de facto is equally so de jure," and while this principle has never been acted upon in formally recognizing a new order of things, its profession by Van Buren well illustrates the liberal policy of our statesmen It is a policy based on the right of a people to set up such governing systems as they please and on our interest in cultivating friendly relations with any system thus formed

It is left to the executive, and to him alone, to perform the act which admits a new government into good fellowship with our own There may be circumstances in which considerations of expediency prompt him to consult congress, as Jackson did when he knew that the recognition of Texas would mean a war with Mexico or as any president would need to do if he combined recognition with convention The supreme court however, has affirmed the doctrine frequently that under the constitution the executive authority is complete, and Mr Seward put the principle into these unequivocal words "The question of recognition of foreign revolutionary or reactionary governments is one exclusively for the executive and cannot be determined internationally by congressional action " Revolutions in South America have been so frequent since the Spanish American states began to grow restive under transatlantic authority that we have been frequently called upon to give expression to our policy on this important question It has generally been given so readily that our hand has been the first to welcome new conditions especially when they were in harmony with republican ideas We always have been quick to encourage the growth of free government and the extinction of class claims President Harrison may therefore, be expected to act toward Brazil generously and quickly

THE "COMPANY STORE"

An attempt is to be made to prohibit in mining or manufacturing districts of Washington that fruitful source of discontent among employes known as the "company store " This "institution" is nothing more or less than a store owned and operated by the mining or manufacturing company the object of which is to get back in trade the wages paid to employes for work It is within the range of possibility of course, for these stores to be conducted on strictly business principles The company may scorn to take advantage of the necessity of trading at these stores, which it imposes upon the earner, but there is good reason to believe that these cases form the exception to the rule There is besides, a dictatorship in requiring men to spend their money at designated places that is a perpetual and not unreasonable source of discontent In every strike that has taken place in the Pennsylvania coal regions the "company store" has formed one of the chief grievances of the strikers Manufacturing and mining corporations can well afford to purge themselves of this particular form of greed and by keeping strictly to an industrial line of business remove this staple grievance from the long catalogue of labor's plaint Wisdom prudence and justice all appeal for a course of this kind but as they are too apt to appeal in vain it is well enough to invoke the aid of the law in removing these fruitful causes of discontent from mining districts The bill introduced for this purpose in the senate of Washington is comprehensive and to the point Its passage will work no hardship to manufacturing corporations and if it does not benefit miners and operatives in any other way it will give them one less cause for discontent.

A STRONG CASE

The Chicago Times reviews the case as made by the state against the gang on trial for the murder of Dr Cronin It has no doubt whatever that the prisoners at the bar are the actual murderers though not all of them "The case, as submitted by the state," the Times says "is one of great strength It was made without the assistance of an informer always a dangerous witness for the prosecution The state did not prove, and in the nature of things could not prove, the immediate circumstances of the murder, but by a masterful array of circumstances it has demonstrated the existence of the conspiracy, and beyond the question of a doubt in any reasonable mind it has identified the accused as active members of the conspiracy "

The proofs submitted by the state are almost wholly circumstantial but they are of the most convincing nature, and make a chain as strong as the clearest facts The defense rests upon the cheap method of alibis. It does not put a single one of the defendants on the stand because it dares not "It does not attempt to explain Burke's flight from the country and his strenuous efforts to prevent extradition. It does not produce Coughlin's friend Smith, who at his recommendation hired the horse and buggy, and who if he were in existence and an honest man, would be of invaluable service in clearing the wretched detective from the suspicion of guilt "

The Times says "The jury is entirely removed from the influence of public opinion, and when the time comes which cannot be for a week or ten days yet will bring in its own verdict But the public, before whom has been spread with nearly as much fidelity and circumstance as has been used in court all that was submitted in evidence, will have no difficulty in arriving at a result "

The wiseacre of the Albany Democrat remarks "The associated press dispatches from Montana to The Oregonian are a mess of bitter partisan lies from first to last We caution people who desire to earn the truth about the muddle to place no reliance whatever in these dispatches Even the Mercury and Journal both republican papers denounce these dispatches as wholly unreliable " It may be remarked that the dispatches from Montana published in The Oregonian are not associated press dispatches but The Oregonian's own special dispatches and moreover they may be depended on as stating the truth of the situation Further, it may be said that the Albany Democrat represents the incredulous Bourbonism that has been doubting the truth of The Oregonian's news during thirty years But everything has been verified all the same As for the other papers named as denouncing The Oregonian's news as wholly unreliable, they may or may not do so but whether they do so or not nobody ever regards them since they are not supposed any more than the Democrat to know what is actually going on anywhere

Reports of the alarming prevalence of typhoid fever among the students of Yale college suggest the necessity of the application of a knowledge of sanitary rules and conditions to that institution and its surroundings which all intelligent people in this age are supposed to possess This is one of the diseases that has passed the "visitation of God" and the "dispensation of Providence" era and come down to the basis of a calamity that is preventable Hence, a city like Hartford and a great institution of learning like Yale cannot afford to entertain so unseemly a guest under the pretext of helplessness

No one is to be entrusted with the manuscript of the president's message previous to delivery but Miss Alice Sanger, his excellency's stenographer and typewriter The document will be sent to congress on the 11th of December, and even the sworn trusties in the government printing office, who usually take such documents in charge and place them in type prior to delivery, will not get a peep at this one It is probable that this being his first message President Harrison regards it with a nervous solicitude that will not be bestowed on its successors in that line

Lord Byron, though not much of a saint was a good deal of a poet, and he had withal a strong spirit of common sense. In 1821 he wrote:

"God save the king—and kings,
For if he doesn't I doubt if man will longer—
I think I hear a little bird who sings
The people, by and by will be the stronger "

This may not be very great poetry, but when we recall the time in which it was written it will pass for very good prophecy

Official returns to the department of agriculture show the yield of corn to be a full average slightly above 26½ bushels to the acre. This insures an enormous aggregate of this great staple The returns of potatoes make the crop average 76 bushels per acre The crop is generally poor, both in yield and quality throughout the country. The same is true of apples of which not one fourth of a crop is reported anywhere except in Michigan

---

Mugwump journals like the New York Evening Post and Springfield Republican were so well satisfied with all the partisan abuses of the Cleveland administration that they joyfully supported Mr Cleveland for re election, But now they are denouncing and condemning the Harrison administration because Mr Harrison has put back into office some of the republicans whom Mr Cleveland removed to make room for democrats

SPIRIT OF THE NORTHWEST PRESS

A THRIVING SECTION OF IDAHO

Moscow Mirror Moscow the present year has made a wonderful growth, but yet not more than to keep balance the growth of the country. The country surrounding the town has been filling up very rapidly Settlers are pushing back into the mountains for timber and taking up every foot of land They have settled on unsurveyed land and are waiting for it to be surveyed With this steady flow of people into the country it is necessary that the town should improve Next year will see Moscow growing still larger and in a very few years she will have a population of 6000 or 7000 Situated in the heart of the most productive country on the continent with the mountains to the east burdened with timber and filled with the precious metals The mines now being opened are only a small beginning, for there is quite a number already discovered that are awaiting facilities for working With the rich mines within a few miles, the dense forests in sight and a country productive in both fruit and grain, yielding double and thribble the amount that can be raised by Eastern farmers and a country populated by thrifty energetic farmers who naturally look to Moscow as a trading centre, Moscow has surely a bright future

PORTLAND'S POLICE COMMISSIONER.

Wasco County Sun Joseph Simon still holds his seat as police commissioner down with a big D Dick Fverding was elected to supersede Joseph, but Joseph declined to supersede Fverding on Joseph's refusal to step down and out brought suit in the shape of a quo warranto, to discover by what authority Joseph clung to the office like its cerements do to a mummy and he has discovered Joseph had a law passed by the legislature last winter making him police commissioner for life The matter finally reached the supreme court, and it was there decided not only that Joseph could hold the office as long as he pleased but that Henry McGinn, the district attorney need not prosecute a suit of this kind unless he wanted to The only way to prosecute the suit is through the district attorney, and as he can use his own pleasure about it, Joseph gets away with the prize The good citizens of Portland will pass judgment on this matter at the election next June and if we do not mistake their mettle they will sit down hard on both Joe Simon and Henry McGinn

ASSESSMENT AND TAXATION.

Eugene Register Everybody agrees that the present system is a poor one and is sadly in need of being remedied This can only be done by the practical method of legislation, where practical men are in the majority As long as every man has his hobby to inject into the system and votes to reject every provision that does not embrace it, we will not get anything any better than the present. There are a good many foolish notions in regard to what constitutes property Many of the absurdities of the present law spring from jealousy and a disposition to regard all men as liars in listing money and credits Let us all lay aside our pet schemes and refer the whole matter to a few practical men to formulate a better system, and then support it heartily

PUBLISHING A NEWSPAPER.

East Oregonian We long ago discovered that a good paper could not be published by waiting until the people gave patronage enough to justify it. We went ahead and published a good paper consuming energy, time and money in the effort The paper gradually grew and prospered and business came to it as naturally as a large body attracts a smaller one. The paper was always ahead in enterprise, it shouldered responsibilities which it staggered under, but it managed to pull along under the heavy loads.

Lady Dufferin's studies in Hindustani may have been encouraging, or the reverse, but some of the illustrations she cites of "native English" are at least amusing Our resident at Bhurtpore was addressed by a native as "Honored Enormity!" A native describes the horse as "a very noble animal but when irritated he ceases to do so." Poverty and progress is thus outlined "In short, the rich man welters on crimson velvet while the poor man snorts on flint" Literary aspiration is generally whimsical.

MONTANA AS A STOCK COUNTRY.

Everybody Well Prepared for a Hard Winter—The Sheep Industry.

BILLINGS, Mont., Nov 25, 1889—The condition of the weather has been very favorable for the live stock interest, open and pleasant. The stock in general are fat and in good condition to make their way through a hard winter And in the face of the long, hot and dry summer, there is plenty of grass which is demonstrative of the productiveness of the arid lands

The winter of '86 and '87 taught the average stock raiser that providence depended on at all times was not the safest guarantee against loss therefore nearly all are well prepared for a bad winter

The sheep growing industry has proved to be the safest investment, and many capitalists heretofore of the cattle and horse trusts are converting their funds into the sheep business which interest has already assumed a wonderful magnitude

The fine merino sheep are little sought after, nor cared for, as they cannot endure the cold so well as the downs sheep The downs are a more ready sale as mutton sheep, and are more easily reared

Both sheep and wool command a better price here than in Eastern Oregon The ranges are better and far more extensive here than there It will graze many times its present number of stock

A large number of Oregon sheep were brought here last summer and fall, the owners being well pleased with our beautiful grazing lands and many others are to follow next year

The hard winter did not so devastate the horse business as it did the cattle so that enterprise is a ready assuming a vast amount of the capital invested in stock, to the glut of the market and depreciation of value of horses

We have in connection with the stock business other pursuits of vast importance mining of the precious metals and coal sawmilling and agricultural New mines of the precious metals are being developed, new coal beds are being opened up and railroads constructed to them

Arid lands are being reclaimed by irrigation and beautiful farms are dotting the country

Every channel of business is teeming with industry and a good remuneration is received in most cases of investment of capital or labor The feeling for next year is that everything will be booming

A goodly number of immigrants are linking their fortunes with ours. They mostly all have some capital, take hold and push themselves into business They being mostly of the middle class, make a very desirable acquisition

This is not a difficult country in which to make money, if one has some push, and the most of our people are of the rushing business class. Practically, Montana is the best stock country of the West.

CROOK COUNTY NOTES.

PRINEVILLE, Or, Nov 22.

Mr R. P Miller, a successful stock raiser of Crook county went East this fall with a carload of fine horses, for which he obtained good prices.

W W Harris who has been visiting friends and relatives in the Willamette valley during his past two months returned home recently He states that the snow on the summit of the Cascade range was about one foot and a half deep and then growing It is probably impassable at this period as we have had considerable rain here since then Leavens Bros, formerly of Douglas county, have sold their property near Harney for $4 000 D A Leavens, their father, who has recently passed away leaves them an estate of $100 000 and upward, in addition to the amount of the above sale.

HOW THE POETS SAY IT RAINS

BEFORE THE RAIN

We knew it would rain for all the morn
A spirit on slender ropes of mist
Was lowering golden buckets down
Into the vapory amethyst

Of marshes and swamps and dismal fens—
Scooping the dew that lay in the flowers,
Dipping the jewels out of the sea,
To scatter them over the land in showers.

We knew it would rain for the poplars showed
The white of their leaves the amber grain
Shrunk in the wind and the lightning now
Is tangled in tremulous skeins of rain
—T B Aldrich.

RAIN AT SEA.

Sometimes a cloud, with thunder black,
Stooped low upon the darkening main,
Piercing the waves along its track.
With the slant javelins of the rain
—John G Whittier

THE SHOWER HARP

The strings are made of rain, and when
The branches wish to dance again
They whisper to the Breeze, and he Begins another melody
—Frank Dempster Sherman.

A RAINY DAY

O blessed blessed rainy day!
Here will I sit and while away
The sober morn in this warm nook,
And browse thro some delightful book
—Rev J B Kenyon.

THE RAIN

Heigh ho! the rain!
The dainty delicate rain!
Hear how it taps at my window pane!
Gratefully sweet like Love's most fingers
Laid on a brow where fever lingers
Drip the cool sounds on my heated brain.
Heigh ho! the dainty, delicate rain!
—C A Briggs

THE END OF THE RAIN.

A sudden wind from out the west
Blew all its trumpets loud and shrill
The windows rattled with the blast
The oak trees shouted as it passed
And straight as if by fear possessed,
The cloud encampment on the hill
Broke up, and fluttering flag and tent
Vanished into the firmament,
And down the valley fled amain,
The rear of the retreating rain
—H W Longfellow

CLEVELAND'S WEAKNESS.

Facts and Figures for Democrats to Consider.

Work of the Hill Faction—A Determined Effort Throughout the Country to Put Grover C. Down.

"A New York Democrat" publishes in the Chicago Herald, a democratic paper, the following statement: The democratic party desires to nominate a man for president in 1892 who can be elected, and who, when elected, will be a worthy exponent of its doctrines, faithful to his party and a good executive officer It has no other ambition than this, and it has many men from whom to choose. But the friends of Mr. Cleveland are advancing his name with great vehemence, and are denouncing those who do not share their views as to his popularity and the need of his re-election Herein they commit again the blunder of 1888, where for months before the holding of the St. Louis convention they declared that no man besides Mr Cleveland could possibly be elected president. Every other element and interest of the party were sacrificed to the advancement of Mr. Cleveland. Criticisms of his course were looked upon as party treason, any man who dared to differ from him upon questions of policy was looked upon as a party traitor All the resources of party discipline were brought to bear to make the real issue of the year the support of Mr. Cleveland.

These efforts were successful; no other man was mentioned in the convention, or for weeks in advance of the holding of the convention. The democratic party entered the convention with no independent purpose. Intelligent discussion disappeared The cut and dried programme was carried out which nominated Mr Cleveland by acclamation, adopted the platform which he had caused to be written out in the White house by acclamation and without debate; and nominated the man whom he had chosen for vice presidential associate by an overwhelming majority To accomplish this the whole power of the Federal administration was brought to bear upon the democratic organization, and the consequence was the substitution of the will of one man for the intelligent and thoughtful counsel of a great party. A more fatal error could not befall a great party aspiring to administer the affairs of a free government Nor would this condition of affairs have been created by a man who was a great leader. It was a condition intolerable to freemen.

As much has been said of late about the fact that Mr Cleveland had a plurality over Mr Harrison, and as it is sought to be argued therefrom that he was greatly and personally popular, an analysis of this matter will not be without its value Mr Tilden's popular plurality in 1876 was 250,000, that of Mr. Cleveland, after four years of power, was only 93,000 Of the votes given to Mr. Cleveland in 1884, 513,226 were majorities obtained in the Southern states, showing that in the great Northern commonwealths his popular vote was 420,000 less than that of Mr Harrison; and it was in the Northern democratic states that Mr Cleveland needed his majorities and not in the South. And since this question of majorities is being used so much by those who insist upon the renomination of Mr Cleveland in 1892, we should give the matter further and more careful consideration The state of New York gave him 192 854 majority for governor in 1882 In 1884 it gave him 1047 plurality; in 1888 it gave Harrison 13 174 plurality, and at the same election gave the democratic candidate for governor 19,171 plurality, and yet the state of New York was and is a democratic state.

The election just past shows a democratic plurality of 25 000 for Mr. Brice, and this in spite of the coalition in New York city of the republican party and the county democracy, peculiarly Mr. Cleveland's faction. In 1884 Mr. Cleveland carried exclusive of the metropolitan counties, eleven country counties by pluralities aggregating 9780; these same counties in 1888 only gave him 1870—a loss in democratic pluralities in democratic counties of 7910 votes The democratic state of Connecticut in 1884 gave Mr Cleveland a plurality of 1200, and only 300 in 1888. The democratic state of Indiana gave him a plurality in 1884 of 6512 and gave Mr. Harrison in 1888 a plurality of 2392, and yet at the same election gained three democratic congressmen, making a total from that state of ten democrats and three republicans in the lower house of congress The democratic state of Virginia gave Mr Cleveland a plurality of 16,000 in 1884 but only 1100 in 1888 It has now swung back to 30,000,

In the state of Illinois, in 1884, fifty-one counties were republican and fifty-one democratic, the fifty one democratic counties gave a plurality in 1884 to Mr. Cleveland of 33,858 votes, but in 1888 the same counties gave him only a plurality of 12,397, while the whole state gave Palmer 12,000 more democratic votes than it gave Mr Cleveland. If anything can be demonstrated by the results, it would appear that Mr Cleveland's fatal weakness was with the democracy, whom he did not comprehend, and whom he did not honor. One who will study the elections of 1884 and 1888 carefully and dispassionately with a view to determining what should be the future action of the democratic party, will rise from that study with the conviction graven upon his heart that Mr Cleveland can never be a successful candidate before that "proud and powerful" people whose political ascendency has been still further increased by the admission of new states to the Union, thus giving them additional control in the congress and in the electoral college.

There is no doubt but that boodle, to use the modern phrase played an important part in the election of 1888, but it is furthermore true that boodle would not have prevailed in a contest against a man who was enshrined in the hearts of the democracy. The losses of Mr. Cleveland were not generally in the boodle districts not in the cities, which are supposed peculiarly to be the home of the boodlers, but they occurred in the country regions and at the cross-roads, where men were voting their feelings and where they gave expression to their resentments The heart of the democracy was not in the campaign and the result demonstrated that the silent vote which had been alienated, as in the democratic counties of Illinois, was not swept from its democratic allegiance by the use of money, but by alienating affections of the democratic voters.

The above is an indication of the work that Governor Hill's friends and supporters are doing against Mr Cleveland. The Philadelphia Press makes this comment:

Up to the present time Governor Hill has had little or no newspaper support in the West His friends are evidently determined that this omission shall be supplied and that the democrats of that neighborhood shall know by facts and figures how weak Mr. Cleveland would be as a candidate in 1892

The bitter warfare which has been waged during this year between the Hill and Cleveland factions will now probably increase in acerbity The Hill faction has been particularly weak in the West, where the St. Louis Republic has waged an unrelenting war on New York's governor The leading accusation it has brought against him is the charge that he "sold out" Mr Cleveland in New York in the election of 1888 In support of this claim the Republic is continually parading the democratic presidential and gubernatorial vote, and urging that the difference between the two is conclusive proof that Hill "knifed" Cleveland

Many of the most influential democratic papers in the South have also defined their position in this factional fight. The Charleston News and Courier, the Nashville American and the Memphis Avalanche are pronounced in their advocacy of Mr Cleveland's claims on the nomination, while the Augusta, Ga., Chronicle the Birmingham Age Herald and probably the Atlanta Constitution are persuaded that Governor Hill would be the strongest candidate. With the accession of the Chicago Herald to their ranks, the fight of the Hill faction will be more aggressive than ever Other democratic organs will be compelled to define their attitude and the party will be divided into two warring factions.

It is a far cry to the next presidential nomination and the country will watch with a good deal of interest this early development of bitterness as to the democratic standard bearer for 1892 It is probable that the contest will continue until the convention meets and the name of the successful candidate is announced. And it will be curichurch. The hymn—"Eternal source of every joy"—was then sung, whereupon Rev. T. E. Clapp, pastor of the church in which the services were held, introduced Rev. S. R. Reese, D. D., of Kansas City, Mo., who chose for his text Matthew xx:22, his subject being "Fitness for Power." This earnest and most eloquent address was listened to with the closest attention by the crowded audience, and at the close the audience gave a unanimous vote of thanks to the speaker, and requested him to prepare it for publication. A glowing and poetically eloquent tribute was paid to the beauty of the situation of our favored city, surrounded, as it is, upon all sides, by natural objects of grandeur. The view of the city's surroundings from the summit of our western hills at an early hour yesterday morning, greatly impressed the speaker with the beauties of nature, with which we should, as a people, be more familiar. Strong emphasis was laid upon the public schools, the state universities, the religious schools, and above all, the home, as the safeguards of our nation.

No mere synopsis of the speaker's words can give any idea of the inspiring thoughts set in motion by them.

At the close of the services a collection was taken for the Children's Home," which amounted to upward of $40.

"America" was then sung and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. John Gordon D. D.

"THE CHURCH OF OUR FATHER."

AN ADDRESS BY THE PASTOR ON "CIVIL SERVICE REFORM."

Rev. Mr. Eliot, of the Unitarian church, reached the city Thursday morning after an absence of five weeks in the East, during which he visited St. Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. As by notice duly given, the church was opened for Thanksgiving service. After the reading of the great Thanksgiving Psalm, 104th, and the prayer, the pastor made an address, in the course of which he alluded to the civil service reform and the ballot reform known as the Australian; the latter he had seen in operation at the Massachusetts general election of November 5, and he said would be made by him at a fitting occasion, the subject of an extended notice or lecture. Mr. Eliot regarded it as the most significant of reforms, plucking, so to speak, the teeth and claws of bribery or fraud in elections.

Of civil service reform he reported that it remains a living issue in politics, and there is an increasing determination by the best men of all parties to follow up every administration and political campaign with increased vigor in its behalf. The sermon closed with an earnest tribute to the greatness and harmony of our country and institutions, and a plea for renewed consciousness of the mutual dependence of the home and the state. The service was one of happy reunion among the people and pastor, and concluded with singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

AT THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

SERVICES YESTERDAY—DISCOURSE DELIVERED BY REV. J. V. MILLIGAN.

The commodious auditorium of this spacious edifice was comfortably filled by 11 o'clock, and services were had of an interesting and impressive character.

The sermon was by Rev. J. V. Milligan, who reviewed in a masterly manner the causes for thanksgiving on the part of the nation and as individuals. The clergyman's remarks were closely listened to by the large congregation.

The song service portion of the exercises was peculiarly interesting and appropriate to the occasion. An excellent choir, trained for the occasion by Professor Werschkul, contributed some choice selections.

The services were united in by all the Presbyterian churches of the city, and the exercises were conducted jointly by the various resident pastors.

TAYLOR STREET M. E. CHURCH.

AN ELOQUENT SERMON DELIVERED BY DR. I. D. DRIVER.

The Thanksgiving services held at the Taylor street M. E. church yesterday morning proved very interesting and profitable. A very large audience was present. Rev. Dr. Driver delivered an eloquent discourse appropriate to the occasion. It was listened to with unflagging attention. A splendid musical programme had been prepared especially for the occasion, which was rendered in an excellent manner by the large and efficient choir under the leadership of Mrs. W. A. Wetzell.

AT TABERNACLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

There was an increased attendance at the Tabernacle, corner of East Park and Columbia streets, last night. Dr. Reese preached a characteristic sermon on "Death by Neglect." His text was the parable of the talents, in Matthew xxv., 14-30. He drew from the every day experiences of men's lives to show that one need not violate every command to come to death. Neglect of the ability one possesses brings death. In many a pointed illustration he brought the truth home to the hearts of his hearers. At the close of the sermon, one united with the church. Services again this evening. Theme: "Preparation to Meet God." All will be welcome. Come!

THEY ALL ATE TURKEY.

HOW THE "NOBLE BIRD" WAS DISCUSSED AT THE FESTIVE BOARDS.

Any one who has never seen a sea of juvenile faces, beaming with happiness, and glowing with the flush of health, should have paid a visit to the Children's Home yesterday. It was indeed a holiday for the seventy-five little ones who graced the festive board at this institution.

In response to an appeal from the lady managers of the home, the public have been generous with contributions of money, groceries and clothing. The wagons sent around did not return empty, and the ladies have much for which to return thanks. The waiting-room of the Home yesterday presented a scene of disorder and confusion. Boxes of clothing, shoes, hats, and other articles, were piled up in heaps around the floor. The store-room presented the same appearance of prosperity, being filled with sacks of flour, potatoes, meat, preserves, and other articles of food.

Among the principal donators to the Home this year are Aiken & Selling, Fleischner, Mayer & Co., Arthur Kohn, H. W. Corbett, C. H. Prescott and several others, whose names could not be learned. The entire list of contributors would perhaps comprise a hundred or more names.

"Yes, we are very fortunate this year," said Mrs. Woods, the superintendent, "for I think we have received more than we did last year. It seems, too, that the public have anticipated our most urgent wants. Just the article, I supposed, we would have to buy immediately after Thanksgiving have been sent us."

The children enjoyed their dinner as only healthy young people can. There is not a case of sickness at the Home, and it was a pleasure to see so many bright smiling faces. Two large roasted turkeys were sent to the Home by the Esmond hotel. To these six more were added, and out of the eight the little ones made a comfortable meal. First came the turkey, cranberry sauce and other substantial eatables, and, by the time the dessert was announced, most of the little guests were prepared to give up the unequal contest. Altogether the Home received nineteen turkeys, so it is safe to assume that there is no immediate want staring this numerous family in the face.

BIG DAY AT THE Y. M. C. A.

The members of the Y. M. C. A., assisted by committees from the different churches, yesterday gave a reception, dinner and select musical and literary entertainment, that will long be remembered by the many who had the good fortune to participate in the festivities.

The doors were thrown open at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and until 5 o'clock the stairway resounded with the tread of friends and visitors who called to spend a few pleasant hours. The reading rooms, library and assembly room were utilized as reception rooms, and from 4 o'clock until 5 o'clock the time was whiled away in handshaking and social talk. Every one was made to feel at home and enjoy himself.

At 5 o'clock a lively strain from Parsons's orchestra, stationed at the west end of the gymnasium, announced the dinner hour. The gymnasium was turned into an immense dining room, with spreads for 350 guests. In half an hour every seat was taken and a simultaneous attack on the bountiful spread was commenced. An army of lady waiters were in attendance, and it is needless to add that no one went away hungry. The first table having been cleared away, between fifty and 100 more took seats, and they, too, were served with the "royal" bird, cranberry sauce and all the other dainties usual to a Thanksgiving feast. Over 400 people took dinner at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. This was by far the largest spread given in the city yesterday.

After all had regaled the inner man Rev. Alfred Kummer and the Rev. I. D. Driver, in brief addresses, treated the guests to a feast of reason.

Among the ladies to take the most active part in preparing this elegant Thanksgiving spread may be mentioned Mrs. De Lashmutt, Mrs. W. P. Jones, Mrs. Snell, Mrs. Brannan, Mrs. J. Corkish, Mrs. C. L. Fay, Mrs. Staver, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. E. W. Allen and Mrs. F. A. Insley.

R. W. Wright was chairman of the general committee of arrangements, and J. R. Rodgers, F. A. Kenny, C. L. Galleen, L. E. Hibbard, E. C. Frost, and R. J. Fisher acted as heads of the various sub-committees. The various churches sent committees of ladies to act as waiters. There was so much turkey and other eatables left over that the ladies intend to serve a business men's lunch from 11:30 o'clock to 2 o'clock to-day.

Later in the evening the tables were removed from the gymnasium to make way for chairs and benches, as the musical entertainment was to be given in the same room. By 8:20 this large hall was crowded to the doors. Every seat, bench and box was occupied and standing room was at a premium.

The exercises opened with a brief address by the president of the association, J. Thorburn Ross. Mr. Ross referred to the address of Dr. Kummer, in which the reverend gentleman said that it was a grand thing to be a young man. Mr. Ross coincided with this opinion, but believed that it was a grander thing to be a young lady. Although he had never been one, he knew from experience that a young lady was a grand good thing to have. The grandest kind of a young man he believed to be a Y. M. C. A. young man. He then spoke of the advantages of the association and the inducements offered young men who desire to improve themselves socially, intellectually and physically. He thanked the ladies for their elegant dinner, and, putting the matter to a vote, received the unanimous endorsement of the house.

The next thing on the programme was a dulcimer solo by Prof. Derrow. He played this quaint instrument with the [illegible] touch of a master, and the audience [illegible] charmed with the soft, sweet notes that he was obliged to again and again respond to persistent encores. His "Yankee Doodle" was particularly enthusing and inspiring.

Miss Jeanne Blodgett, one of Portland's talented elocutionists, followed with a selection from James Whitcomb Riley entitled, "The Little Orphan Dan." Her delivery is natural and with a full-chested voice, clear and well modulated and more than ordinary powers of facial gesticulation, she is able to portray character and give expression to emotions with good dramatic effect. To a prolonged encore she responded with a colored preacher's exhortation on Faith, and to a second encore she gave a selection from "Sedgewick Follis."

The male quartette, led by Professor Werschkul, then sang "Nearer My God to Thee," and to an encore responded with "The Old Oaken Bucket."

After a few remarks by the traveling secretary, Noel H. Jacks, the quartette rendered another selection, and Miss Blodgett again favored the audience with several dramatic recitations. James Whitcomb Riley's "An Old Sweetheart," is one of her favorites, and she fairly brought the house down with this selection last night. Mr. E. C. Frost interested the audience with an exhibition of mind reading, and Professor Durand again hammered a few sweet melodies out of his favorite instrument. An overture by the orchestra closed the evening's entertainment.

DINNER AT THE HOSPITALS.

The sick at the three city hospitals were not forgotten, and, though many of them are aged and decrepit, and others tossed on beds of pain, they all felt better for having partaken of a Thanksgiving dinner. They felt that they were not entirely forgotten in a world of jostling, push and activity.

At St. Vincent hospital about 125 patients partook of the excellent dinner the kind sisters had prepared for them. There was turkey, cranberry sauce and all the other necessaries of a first-class Thanksgiving dinner. Several turkeys were donated to the hospital, besides other useful articles, and the sisters desire to return thanks to the the generous donors.

The Good Samaritan hospital entertained sixty-four patients, and they, too, were served with the regulation meal. The hospital had eight turkeys, two of which were donated by Dr. C. C. Strong and Mrs. Kenny.

Although no donations of turkeys were sent to the Portland hospital, the inmates of this home of the sick fared no worse than the sick at the other hospitals. Mrs. O'Dell, the good matron, had prepared for them a fine dinner, and the twenty-six patients ate with the usual Thanksgiving gusto.

EVEN CADETS EAT TURKEY.

At Bishop Scott's Military Academy, the day was observed with all due respect to the Thanksgiving bird. Many of the boys went home to spend the day, but those who remained, sat down to as elegant a spread as ever graced the festive banquet board. The dinner was served in six elaborate courses, and the genial Con. Steutz, academy cook, has won for himself a warm place in the hearts of the cadets, who have about come to the conclusion that he is the only man who knows how to prepare a good meal.

Dr. J. W. Hill, headmaster, exerted himself to make the day a happy one for all who remained there.

ON THE EAST SIDE.

THE CHURCHES PROFUSELY AND APPROPRIATELY DECORATED—THE SERVICES.

St. David's church was decorated yesterday with evergreens and flowers, and the services at 11 A. M. were appropriate to Thanksgiving. There was a large attendance at the union services in the Presbyterian church yesterday morning, while the discourse of Rev. J. W. Bushong was excellent.

The union Thanksgiving services at Albina were held yesterday at the M. E. church at 11 o'clock. The sermon was delivered by Rev. George W. Hill. The discourse was an excellent one and was listened to with close attention throughout. The musical features and decorations were excellent.

A FEAST AT THE "PEN."

The Salem Statesman of yesterday contained the following paragraph and it is only fair to presume that the programme as published was carried out:

This is Thanksgiving day beyond the threshhold at the penitentiary as well as outside the walls. Superintendent Downing is preparing to have the prisoners served with an extra dinner, of which some rare delicacies will form an important part. There will be no work at the prison to-day in the foundry or shops, and the observance of Thanksgiving will be the same as that of Sunday.

GIBBS, SENIOR, TALKS.

What the Young Pullman Porter's Father Has to Say About Himself and Horace.

Judge Mifflin W. Gibbs, a man somewhat past the prime of life, is darker by a shade than his son Horace. There is no mistaking his quiet, self-contained manner and the impression he gives one of reserve power.

"I was in Portland for a week," he said, during an interview yesterday afternoon, "as soon as I could get here after receiving a dispatch about the shooting. From here I went to Tacoma, where my son Donald was, and stopped some days with him. Then, no trace of the boy's whereabouts appearing, I went to St. Paul, where his sisters live. One of them is a graduate of the Oberlin conservatory of music, and is now teaching music at St. Paul. The young ladies were anxious about Horace's troubles, so I went there to talk with them about it. Then I went on to Oberlin, where my wife is now, and from there home to Little Rock.

"It was in the forenoon that I received the dispatch from Donald, stating that Horace had been found, and 6 o'clock found me on the west-bound train for Portland."

HIS OFFICIAL CAREER.

Upon being questioned as to the Federal and other positions he has been accredited with holding, Judge Gibbs said:

"We lived for some years at Victoria, B. C., where our children were all born. I was a member of the city council there. After I went South, I was elected municipal judge of Little Rock, which position I held for some time. I was appointed by President Hayes register of the Little Rock land office, and reappointed to the same position by the Garfield-Arthur administration. I have been a member of every national republican convention since Grant's last term, and canvassed my state every campaign. I am now indorsed by our republican state central committee, of which I am a member, for the office of receiver of public moneys, and as there is no opposition, I expect my nomination will be sent in with the others upon the assembling of congress."

THE BUTLER SCARE.

"It has been said frequently on the streets, judge, that General Ben Butler had been retained for your son's defense."

"There is no truth in the report whatever. We do not rely upon any extraordinary legal maneuvers to clear Horace. If the state of facts do not warrant his discharge, we should not want him released. All we ask is justice.

"I regret the killing as much as any one. But my knowledge of the boy's character, his training and habits, all preclude the possibility, to my mind, of his deliberately killing anybody. I judge that he thought he was overpowered and in great danger, and that he had no idea McDevitt or his son was an officer. He did not, I believe, know either of them."

Concerning the status of the case, the evidence and witnesses for the defense Judge Gibbs could not answer any questions. "I have not been well since my arrival," he said. "The journey of 3000 miles and back here at once without rest was a strain upon me."

A VERY SERIOUS RUNAWAY.

David Wise Thrown From His Cart and Badly Cut and Bruised.

About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon David Wise, proprietor of a small clothing store on First street near C, had a narrow escape from instant death. He was driving down Washington street in company with a friend.

At East Park street one of the wheels of the cart slid along the car track, when Wise tried to pull out to one side, and the horse, a high-spirited animal, became unmanageable and ran away. Wise's companion jumped and escaped uninjured, but on reaching the corner of Seventh street the former was thrown out, landing on his head and shoulders. His head came in contact with the curbstone and was seriously cut.

Mr. Harry Bell and others, who witnessed the accident, picked Wise up and carried him to the Casino drug store, after which Dr. W. H. Saylor was summoned. It was found that the scalp over Wise's left temple had nearly been lifted from the skull. The main gash was about three inches long, and there were two others on the back of the head nearly as bad. Fortunately, however, the skull had not been fractured, and with proper treatment the injured man's chances of recovery are excellent. The left ankle was broken, and it is thought that it will remain stiff after healing. After his wounds had been dressed Wise was removed to Good Samaritan hospital.

The horse, after being relieved of the cart at the corner of Seventh street, dashed on down Washington and ran into a buggy on Fourth street. No damage was done, however. The animal turned into Second street, where it was captured.

STILL PUSHING THE WORK ALONG.

Making Vigorous Preparations to Bring the Cable Line Down Alder Street.

Employes of the Cable Road Company were at work yesterday excavating two pits on Alder street, near Front. One of them, fourteen feet square and eight feet deep, is for the tail sheave or huge iron wheel around which the cable is to pass.

The other pit is circular and twenty feet in diameter, and is for a turntable for turning the cars around. There will be only three tracks on this turntable, the double tracks of the road being curved toward each other and brought into three on the table. The table will be operated by a shaft and gear, which can be thrown into connection with the pulley turned by the cable when desired. The water main on Alder street will probably have to be lowered all the way to Fifth, so as to be out of the way of the iron yokes of the cable road, and what with crossings to be put in on First, Second, Third and Fourth streets, and the changes necessary in the fire cisterns, the laying of the cable road on Alder street, will be quite a job.

The pit for the tail sheave near Front street will be covered with a paving of bituminous rock supported on iron girders and arches. A lot of heavy iron castings for the tail sheave is on the ground, and the turntable will be at hand as soon as the pit for it is completed.

BITTER ASTORIA SERVICE.

The Western Union's New Line on the South Side of the Columbia.

The Western Union's projected new line to Astoria is about to be commenced upon. The permanent survey has been made, and the requisite material is on hand for its erection.

The route of the new line is at once shorter and more promising as to freedom from interruption than the present circuitous and storm-besieged line. Instead of going the old way, by Vancouver, Kalama, etc. the line from here to the river will follow the Northern's railroad track. This arrangement will greatly facilitate repairs. The moment the line is down a man can be started out on the track and can get it up at once.

From Hunter's the route lies on this side of the river and goes straight down through the timber, thus being on higher ground and escaping many of the difficulties to which the present line is subject. In the winter season, as is well known, the caving in of banks where the poles are set and the unstable condition of much of the low land on which the line is built are the cause of frequent interruption to the Astoria business. This, it is thought, will be in great measure avoided by the new line, and should such prove to be the case, the advantage to the business public, especially shippers and consignees, will be great.

WORSE OFF THAN EVER.

More Complaints About the Condition of Things at the New Freight Depot.

When the new union freight depot was built by the Terminal Company it was expected that it would be a great accommodation to teamsters hauling goods there. The north 400 feet has been occupied by the Northern Pacific for a short time, and teamsters complain that they are worse off than ever. There are not enough clerks or men to handle the freight, and it is piled up in the doors and obstructs the next man who drives up; the place is crowded, and if a man has goods for two or three places on his truck, he has to deliver them at two or three doors, must make a long wait at each, and it takes all the afternoon to deliver a load.

"At this rate," said a truckman, "the transfer companies will be starved and outsiders stand no show at all."

The O. R. & N. Co. have not moved into the new depot, and it is said will not, having much better accommodations in their old quarters at Ainsworth dock.

THE SHERIFFS' CONVENTION.

It Will Meet in the New County Courtroom—Its Objects.

The sheriffs of the state are responding to the call for a state convention pretty generally, and the prospects are considered favorable for an interesting gathering of these stalwart custodians of the public peace. It is some ten days now since the call, signed by some ten or twelve sheriffs of the leading counties, was issued, and the railroad people are beginning to hear from them about transportation. Just how many of the thirty odd counties of the state will be represented is not yet known, as the returns are not all in yet, and some, no doubt, will not send any advance notification of their coming.

"The object of this convention," said Sheriff Penumbra Kelly, one of the prime movers in the enterprise, in speaking of it to a reporter, "is to get the sheriffs together and have them get acquainted. Of course, we always try to do our duty in responding to calls for aid from fellow sheriffs, but a man will always manage, unconsciously to do more for a friend than a stranger. It's human nature, I suppose.

"Now, there is Sheriff Dennis of Washington county. He has been in here often, and we have talked over our offices and our work and got to be pretty good friends. Now Dennis will ride over his county all night and day to do a service for me, and we always answer his appeals for aid with alacrity. So we conceived the idea of getting all the sheriffs of the state together, and becoming friends among each other, as far as possible.

"Then there will be formal discussions and comparing of notes as to the details of administrating the sheriffs office, and our duties and privileges under the law."

"Do you contemplate formulating any recommendation to the state legislature as to changing the existing statute?"

"Not as yet. Still there is no telling what may happen. You may be sure, the sheriffs have their ideas about how their office should be prescribed and some action of that kind may be taken."

It is unkindly whispered that the object of the convention is to get the fees of sheriffs increased. However this may be, the feeling is general in legal circles that any legislation looking to an increase of fees would not be made the object of vindictive denunciation by the sheriff of any county in Oregon.

"Where are you going to let the sheriffs meet?" was asked Judge Catlin.

"Oh, I suppose in the new county courtroom," was the reply. "I think it will be ready by the date of their convention, December 9th. At any rate we will find a good place for them."

THE GENERAL MILES CHARTERED

By Herbert F. Beecher, and Will Run on the Port Townsend-Seattle Route.

The Portland & Coast Steamship Company has chartered the steamer General Miles for six months to Herbert F. Beecher, of Port Townsend, to run between Port Townsend and Seattle by the island route, taking the place of the steamer Libby, lately burned while on the way from San Juan to Port Townsend. The Miles will go around to her new route in about two weeks, and, in the meantime will be thoroughly overhauled and painted. She is now on her way from Shoalwater bay to this port with a load of salmon.

The Alliance and Dolphin are also away, and have not been heard from for several days, as they are all behind time on account of heavy weather. The Alliance was due at Astoria yesterday from Gray's harbor, and the Dolphin, which has been bar bound at Astoria for ten days, should have gone to sea yesterday on her way to Gray's harbor with brick, to return with a cargo of cedar lumber.

That Is What the Postoffice Gross Receipts Are

Postmaster Roby Talks About the Benefits of the Fast Mail System—Difficulties of the Work—Efforts for Increased Allowances.

Since the fast mail began to come in, a reporter has been making efforts to have a talk with Postmaster Roby about the fast mail and its accomplishments. As he spends his hours in waiting upon the crowding stream of people at the money order window, and is always one of the busiest of men, it was not until yesterday that the desired interview could be thought of. So, while others were eating turkey and cranberry sauce, and looking from a close proximity upon the red, red wine, the postmaster looked up from his pile of correspondence, and as he talked the scribe plied his pencil.

"The benefits of the fast mail are evident," said Mr. Roby, "particularly to business men. By it our mail is virtually brought to us early in the morning. Of course the great task is to take care of it all at once. It proves the utter inadequacy of our present force of help. There are several wagon loads of it, each weighing a ton or more, and it pours in upon us, a perfect avalanche of mail. By working hard we generally manage to get it all distributed the same day it comes in. By the old arrangement some of it was bound to go over.

"It is not fair to judge the results yet, I suppose, as the train has been late so much, at one time twenty-four hours. As soon, however, as the proper connections are made at Council Bluffs, Omaha and Green river for our Short Line train, I see no reason why the claim of the superintendent of the mail service should not be justified. He says, you know, that it will make a difference to business men of twenty-four hours. The actual gain in the time of arriving is twelve hours. But, of course, where mail arrives in the evening too late for distribution, it is a gain of twelve hours to the business public if you can get it in early enough in the morning to have it delivered in the forenoon."

"Some one was saying, Mr. Roby, that the carriers are so slow about bringing the mail around that the fast mail is thus deprived of its possibilities."

"Everything is done here that can be done with our present allowances," he replied, with a sigh. "We have just about one third of the additions to the requirements here that we have needed since I came into the office. The postoffice officials who were out here on the fast mail agreed that our allowances are ridiculously small compared with our needs. They are free to say that the management of this department is wretchedly attended to at Washington. The way we are fixed now it is a physical impossibility to get all the mail worked over and delivered in one day.

"Yes, I have done everything in my power to secure increased allowances. All possible attention has been sought from the department officials; our congressman and senators have made personal appeals. At one time I wrote a personal letter to Vilas, and secured an allowance then much needed, but in six months we were away ahead of our provisions again, and have been so ever since."

"What do you need now?"

"In the first place, six more carriers. I have more than doubled the delivery force since I came into the office four years ago, but there is now as urgent need as ever.

"Then we would not have room for them in the office if money was to be allowed to pay their salaries. Look at that mail room! It is about large enough for a city of 15,000 people. We ought to have a mail room, at the least calculation, three times as large. The arrangement of the walls in this building is such that no very large room can be made; then, the other quarters are crowded as it is, so we can't reduce them. And even with the whole of this first floor we should not have adequate room.

"Next, we need another mailing clerk. This position requires unreasonably long hours. The men stand it as long as they can, and when they have worked themselves out resign.

"The money order department is too much for two, and has been for some time. The inspector has endorsed engaging another cheap clerk for copying, etc., and we are now having some necessary extra work done. I have to go down in my pocket for this; there is no allowance made yet.

"With the superintendent and assistant we could get along nicely now, if we could only have more carriers.

"Yes, we have city distributing clerks on incoming mail cars, as they do at San Francisco, but there is a large amount of work which they cannot do."

Questioned concerning the growth of the postoffice business, Mr. Roby said: "Our increase keeps pace with the incoming population. In the last annual report of the department our gross receipts were $91,000. To-day they will not fall a cent short of averaging $10,000 a month, or $120,000 for the year. Our per cent. of expense was the least of any in our class, compared with gross receipts, and the proportion is still in effect."

ELEGANT AND SPACIOUS HALL.

The New Quarters of the Arion Society in the Weinhard Block.

The new quarters of the Arion Society, in the third story of Mr. Henry Weinhard's handsome new block at the corner of Oak and Second streets, are rapidly approaching completion. They will be the most spacious, conveniently arranged and elegant rooms occupied by any society in the city. The society have leased the entire upper story, and it has been specially arranged for their convenience. At the top of the stairs is a spacious, well lighted and handsomely finished vestibule or lobby, from which access is convenient to every room on the floor.

A wide doorway on the right affords entrance to a hall 50 x 100 feet, with a ceiling 24 feet in height, which is furnished with a commodious stage for theatrical or musical performances, which will be furnished with handsome scenery and all necessary stage appointments. A gallery runs around three sides of the room, which is accessible by two stair-cases, one from the lobby and one at the rear. There is an entrance from the hall to the stage, and also one from the lobby, by which performers can pass from the dressing-room to the stage without being in view of the audience. This is an arrangement which no other hall in the city has, and is a great convenience. A stair-case leads from the stage to the gallery also. The floor of the hall is of maple, highly finished, and will make a most excellent dancing floor.

Adjoining the hall is a ladies' reception room, 32x22 and 22 feet high, which will be furnished in elegant style, with handsome mirrors, chandelier and carpets, and with cloak room and toilet adjoining. This room is accessible from the lobby or the hall, and is well lighted by windows looking on Oak street.

Off from the reception room is a reading room, 17x40 feet, and above this is a billiard room, from which a passage leads through a room which can be used for refreshments to the gallery. On the left of the lobby is a fine room with a high ceiling, which can be used for rehearsals, and from which there is convenient access to the stage or hall. This room is lighted from the court in the rear of the building, where there is an iron fire escape, closets, etc. The whole is most admirably and conveniently arranged, and the Arion Society will have just reason to feel proud of their new quarters.

The rehearsals of the mixed course for the next concert of the Arion Society has just commenced. Any lady or gentleman wishing to join can apply to Professor Stebinger, or to any member of the board of directors of the society.

OF INTEREST TO FRUIT GROWERS.

The State Board of Horticulture Recommend Washes for This Winter's Use.

The following is taken from the last monthly bulletin issued by the Oregon State Board of Horticulture:

The bulletins previously issued by this board have been devoted to washes and sprays adapted for summer use, when the trees are in foliage. At such times care is necessary that the strength of the wash shall not be such as will injure the foliage or tender, growing branches; therefore the results are not as satisfactory as they would be if stronger washes could be used. Now that the season has arrived when the trees have dropped their foliage, leaving them in a dormant state and free from anything that will interfere in reaching the parts where the eggs, or larvae, of the insects are deposited, and when a much stronger wash can be used without fear of injury to the trees, the board would advise this as the opportune time when a vigorous and thorough warfare be engaged in by all who have fruit trees, for the extermination, as far as possible, of the eggs and larvae that have been deposited upon the bark and in the crevices of the trees during these latter weeks, when most of the obnoxious insects have been busily engaged in depositing their eggs and larvae for another season's crop, believing, as we do, that more can be accomplished by one good thorough spraying of the trees during the next sixty days than can be by five times that number of sprayings after the foliage has appeared upon the trees.

Among the many washes used for this season of the year, the following is recommended as being cheap, simple, easily procured and effective, not only for the removal of eggs and larvae of insects, but the accumulated moss, a parasite of the tree, which should be removed:

Take one pound of American or Babbitt's concentrated lye and dissolve in two and one-half gallons of water. This strength of wash should not be used after the buds have commenced to swell. If wanted for use after the foliage has started, the strength should be reduced by using twice the amount of water, making one pound of lye to five gallons of water. In using these lye washes the hands should be protected, otherwise disagreeable sores may be the result.

The board would call upon every citizen loyal to the great fruit interests of Oregon to aid in every possible manner in the destruction of these enemies of the fruit and tree, which have secured so strong a hold in many of our orchards, and keep them from spreading into parts of our state not as yet infested by them. This spreading is done largely through the medium of the apple box, fruit trees, scions, etc., shipped in from parts now affected. Every box, sack, storehouse or cellar in which wormy apples or pears have been shipped or stored, is the home of the larvae of the codlin moth, and which, if not destroyed by the thorough use of hot water, or some other means, will come forth in the early spring months fully prepared to propagate its kind in untold numbers in the first apple or pear orchard that comes in its way. Likewise, the trees shipped from many of the nurseries are impregnated with the eggs of the green and woolly aphis; therefore all fruit trees, grafts, scions, cuttings, etc., should be disinfected, by immersing them for a few moments in a hot solution composed of one pound of whale oil soap to one gallon of water.

The board desires to call the attention of every fruit grower in Oregon to the two bulletins already issued by them, and if any have not received them they can do so by addressing the secretary or any one of the commissioners.

GOOD SPORT LAST NIGHT.

Exciting Contests Between Faulkner and Schumacher, Eyton and Connors.

The attendance at the Mechanics' pavilion last night was the largest since its opening under the present management. The galleries were crowded and several hundred found sitting room within the inclosure where the wrestling, the principal feature of the entertainment took place.

The first event of the evening, after the skating, was the wrestling match between Conners and Eyton, the young Australian. In the first bout the former had Eyton in difficult positions five times but he did not improve his opportunities. With his great weight, if he had had the science, he should have won the match in two straight falls, but he was lacking in the latter essential; besides his wind was poor. At last Eyton was forced into a "bridge" and Connors bringing his full weight to bear forced the young man's shoulders to the canvas. Time, 5 minutes and 8 seconds.

After a ten minutes' rest the two men again made their appearance, Eyton looking fresh and determined. After thirteen minutes' hard work the latter, by a sudden and unexpected move, threw Connors over his back and the latter's shoulders both touched the carpet, but only for a second. This was sufficient, and Referee E. T. Dobbins gave the fall to Eyton.

While the men were resting for the final bout, Bert Van Cleve, of Baker City, and Vincent Hill, of Portland, ran a two mile bicycle race. The Baker City man was overmatched, and Hill won the race by nearly half a lap in eight minutes and a quarter.

The final bout of the wrestlers was short and exciting. Eyton went to work with a will, and after seven minutes' tusseling again made Connors' shoulders touch canvas. The referee awarded him the fall, but Connors interposed an objection. Although he was clearly entitled to the fall and second prize, the accommodating Australian gave his antagonist another chance. This bout resulted the same as the preceding one, however, Eyton winning the fall in just three minutes and four seconds. He won both falls on a "Hammer lock and half Nelso."

While Faulkner and Schumacher were dressing for the event of the evening, Mr. Morgan and Jessie Oaks treated the audience to an exciting five-mile bicycle race. The latter was allowed a handicap of five laps. Although both riders fairly flew around the track, it was nobody's race up to the finish. Morgan passed Miss Oaks four times, but was unable to catch up with her for the fifth time, and the female champion finished half a length ahead of him, amid considerable excitement. Time, 15 minutes and 12 seconds.

Faulkner champion light weight of the world, and Schumacher, middle weight champion of the Pacific coast, made their appearance promptly on time. Mr. Morgan, who refereed the match, cautioned the men to keep their temper and to do no choking under penalty of losing the match. As bad blood has existed between the men over a little affair in Tacoma, Mr. Morgan's stand was well taken and no trouble occurred. At the word the men went to work in a spirited manner. In weight Schumacher was far the heaviest, but the Englishman made up in science and experience. The first and second falls, although very interesting to admirers of this class of sport, did not create much excitement. The first was won by Faulkner in seven minutes and twenty-five seconds, and the second by Schumacher in exactly six minutes.

The men went to work in the third bout in a very cautious manner. Each had the other in several difficult positions during the eight and a quarter minutes they wrestled, but were unable to gain the fall. After working until they were both blowing hard, Faulkner suddenly rose to a standing position. Schumacher jumped up behind him and grabbed him around the waist. This was just what the wily little Englishman wanted. After making several feints to lead the Portlander to believe that he wished to break his waist hold, Faulkner suddenly bent forward and, reaching between his own legs, grabbed those of his antagonist, who still held him from behind. Pulling up on Schumacher's means of locomotion Faulkner had the former on his shoulders before either he or the audience realized that the match was at an end. The neat way in which Faulkner accomplished this piece of stratagem brought forth hearty applause, and many were the congratulations he received.

After Mr. Morgan had declared Faulkner the winner of the match Schumacher, who, as can be imagined, was greatly displeased over his defeat, addressed the audience in these words: "I was summoned by telegraph to wrestle Mr. Faulkner just two days before I met him. I have had no time to get into condition, but nevertheless I have met him in his favorite style of wrestling, catch-as-catch-can. I am willing, yes, anxious to meet him Greco-Roman style, best two out of three falls."

"Every man on being fairly defeated has his excuse," replied Faulkner, "I will take him at his word, providing he will wrestle to-morrow, Friday, night, for from $50 to $250."

The matter was settled by Schumacher putting up $50 and Faulkner $50 as a forfeit for a match to-night for $100. The rest of the money will be put to-night before the match takes place.

The entertainment last night concluded with a dance. A large number enjoyed themselves in this manner until a late hour.

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAMME.

In addition to the wrestling to-night Morgan and Miss Oaks will ride a three-mile handicap race. Owing to the lateness of the hour when the wrestling was finished last night the game of polo on skates was postponed. This will be played to-night. Several other interesting events will also take place. The amusements at the Pavilion are legitimate and a large number of ladies were present last night.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

Alfred F. Sears, jr., and Mr. N. S. Wright, have recently bought property at the head of South Front street, and are now living there.

Mr. V. K. Strode now lives in a handsome cottage, erected by himself a few months since on the corner of Kelly and the next street above Whitaker.

Mr. J. Thomas has begun excavating for the foundation of a fine double house on his beautiful lot next to the corner of Gibbs street, on the west side of Corbett.

Miss A. Robertson, of Chicago, accompanied by her sister Kate, is at the Merchants. Miss Robertson has been engaged by Mr. Leland as housekeeper of the big hotel.

A Mr. Steele and Mr. Forbes, brother of Councilman Forbes, are erecting handsome and commodious houses on the east side of Corbett street, between Grover and Gibbs.

The Hogue's recent cargo of 220 tons of wheat, brought down from up the valley, is said by river men to be the largest carried hither for some five or six years. From 175 to 185 tons are considered pretty good loads.

The Linkville stage robbery, for which two men are now under indictment by the United States grand jury here, brings to the city Deputy Sheriff L. Thompson and a party of twenty-two witnesses, who are expected to arrive this morning.

The barber shop at No. 93 First street is still in the hands of H. H. Young, who was victimized out of $250 by Steve Murray two weeks ago. Young decided to assume Murray's indebtedness to Mr. Ward, the mortgagee, and did so. Campbell, the colored barber implicated, has been discharged by Justice Phelan. Meanwhile Murray has got well away, and no effort has been made to follow him up.

BRIEF MENTION.

Do not buy a cheap piano when you can get the very best for the same money. H. Sinsheimer, the well-known music dealer at 214 First street, has just received an immense shipment of the famous Steinway & Son's and Chickering & Son's pianos—the best instruments in the world. He also carries the only high-grade organ—the Burdett. He is the only Portland music dealer who buys direct from the factories for cash only.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

On and after December 1, by special request of his patrons and friends, Mr. Friemann has consented to reopen his elegant establishment to the public at night, and has made extensive improvements and alterations in his kitchen, so as to be able to make a specialty of oysters (theater parties take notice), and has imported a first-class oyster cook for that purpose.

EAST SUBURB OCCURRENCES.

East Portland Needs Badly a Better System of Sewerage.

Pealing of Wedding Bells—Church Building—Fell in the Mud—Repairs—The Salvationists—School Matters.

It is the general impression that the correct way to have a system of sewerage for East Portland planned will be to have an experienced sanitary engineer personally examine the ground and take in consideration the contour, soil, water supply, sloughs and extent of territory to be sewered. It will cost more than the amount the council placed at the disposal of the commission, which is $500, but it will be economy to start right. The sewerage question is pressing heavily. Large buildings for hotels are being completed, and there is no sewerage for them. Mr. Baylor, who has nearly completed a hotel building costing $10,000, on Fifth and H streets, says he cannot start his hotel without sewerage, and has importuned the city council for temporary relief. The school houses, where the attendance is increasing every year, have no sewerage. The commission is doing all it can. It is acquiring information on the subject, and the subject is being thoroughly agitated.

JUMPED FROM A MOVING CAR.

Yesterday afternoon a lady came to N street on the First street car and stepped on the car for Portland. The car started down the sharp incline when the lady suddenly concluded to get off. Without having the driver stop, she jumped off. She was thrown down in the mud, but was not seriously injured. In future she will have the car stop before attempting to get off.

WEDDING BELLS.

The wedding of Miss Angeline Buckman and Mr. Thomas K. Richardson was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. Lydia Buckman, on Thanksgiving day. The bride and groom are well known in this city. Only the relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson left for Roseburg yesterday, where they will reside.

REPAIRING ROOMS.

The buildings that have been secured to accommodate the Stephens grades are being fitted up with seats and other furniture. The school directors, principals and teachers, clerk, and everybody connected with the schools, are giving time and labor to make the necessary arrangements.

RESCUED FROM THE RIVER.

A few nights ago, Policeman Robertson heard some one call for help from the ferry pontoon, and running to the river, he found a man clinging to the edge of the pontoon, and pulled him out. He was drunk and walked into the river.

CHURCH BUILDING.

The frame for the new German Evangelical church on Sixth and E streets is up, and the structure will be pushed to completion as rapidly as the weather will allow. It will be a very neat structure.

SINKING OUT OF NOTICE.

The advice to let the Salvation army alone and keep away from them has been followed, and they have nearly dropped out of the public mind. At least they attract no attention.

REPAIRS.

The planking between the tracks on the Fifth street railroad have worn out so badly that new planking will have to be laid.

VERY SICK.

The little child of Councilman Lewis is very ill with fever and the parents are much concerned.

HE HAD THE OWL MOUNTED ALL RIGHT;

But It Turned Out Very Much to the Surprise of the Supposed Owner.

A few days ago a well-known member of the legal fraternity in this city received a very handsome specimen of the snowy owl from a friend up country. As there was no note accompanying it, the recipient naturally supposed it was intended as a present to him, and he was much pleased, as he considered the white owl as rara avis as a black swan. He brought the pale bird of wisdom around and exhibited it to the reporters of THE OREGONIAN with much pride, and then hastened to a taxidermist, where he ordered it mounted in an expensive and fantastic style, with its wings extended, and their points coming together over its head, something after the conventional style of the angels on each end of the arc of the covenant, with the intention of using it for a fire or lamp screen, or something of that sort. When a day or two later he received a note from the man who had sent the owl, asking him to please have some taxidermist mount the bird and send it up with the bill, the legal gentleman was "all broke up." If the owl is shipped in its spread eagle condition the freight charges and the style of the bird will astonish the owner.

PERSONAL.

Leon S. Rosenblatt begs to inform the public that he will open his store, No. 68 Washington street, on Saturday November 30.

Mr. A. F. Gartner, the insurance adjuster, has just returned from a business trip to Butte in connection with the fire there.

Methodism Is Declining.

The Rev. Dr. Roche, of Brooklyn, declares that Methodism is declining in New York city and Brooklyn. He says that every church in New York, from St. John's to One Hundred and Eighteenth street, now looks for maintenance to the church societies. "Try as we may," says he, "and use every endeavor, it is impossible to get a congregation. This state of affairs is not the fault of the ministers engaged in the work, for I have filled my pulpit with the most able preachers and the body of the church has not been half filled. There is no use trying—employ every device—you cannot secure a congregation.

Won't Celebrate This Year.
